Two Swamis, Too Many
Let Lindbergh Rest
Life Grows Longer
Mr. Barber Killed Four

— By Arthur Brisbane —

LOS ANGELES, CAL., JAN. 9.—The inhabitants of this city, especially husbands, are watching two "holy men" from India, their names Mukund LaLa Hosh and Basukumar Ragchi. These Hindu "swamis" sometimes called Yogananda and Dhirananda, manage a school for ladies. Each lady pays $35 cash down, and is taught, on top of a high mountain, almost everything from fat reduction and tissue building to "heaven vibrations" and "love control." When educated, she is expected to give liberally.

One Los Angeles husband thrashed one swami. The district attorney may act.

Similar educational institutions have recently been revealed on the Riviera near Nice, in Switzerland and elsewhere. The amazing thing is not that swami gentlemen could collect $35, but that American women should be such colossal fools.

In a strong wind and a tropical shower, Lindbergh landed in Panama yesterday afternoon, finishing his flights over the forests of Central America.

His trip, non-stop from Washington to Mexico City, and his other flying have done good, no doubt. But Lindbergh's life is worth more to this country, even, than the good accomplished by this flying. The young airman, for a while, should be protected from dangerous risks.

Dr. Irving Fisher, wise man of Yale, says man's average life, seventy years hence, will probably be eighty years, because destructive diseases will be successfully fought. Typhoid has declined 87½ per cent., diphtheria 44 per cent., deaths from consumption have greatly diminished. If cancer and heart disease could be conquered, thousands might live to 100, where one reaches that age now.

However, not how long you

DEATH SHADOW ON HER FACE NOW

RUTH BROWN SNYDER

This hitherto unpublished picture of the hopeless woman in Sing Sing death cell, waiting to be called to her doom in the electric chair, reveals her in the prime of her beauty with the austere expression of a Borgia. Her mother visits her daily to bolster her up spiritually for the ordeal she faces.

FIND DEAD IN WRECK ON FARM

Canajoharie, N. Y., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The wreckage of an airplane which has been missing since Sunday afternoon and the bodies of its three passengers were found in a field seven miles southeast of here today. Indications were that the plane crashed in a fog.

The victims of the accident were Lieutenant George R.

Plague of Rats Sweeps London; Pied Pipers Work Day and Night

London, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—A plague of rats was sweeping London today in the wake of the flood of last Saturday.

Driven from wharves, warehouses and basements in the low-lying parts of the city, small rats, lean rats, [illegible] rats and brawny rats, [illegible] of tens and dozens, scurried about in search of new homes.

Never before has London been so rat ridden, said William Dalton, official rat catcher, who, with a staff of expert pied pipers, is working day and night to drive the invaders from the city.

HUB COP MYSTERIOUSLY SLASHED IN CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge police today are investigating circumstances surrounding the discovery of a Boston patrolman, one arm slashed, apparently with a razor, who was found in a house in that city today.

The Boston officer, said to have been on leave of absence, was taken to a hospital, where the cuts were treated and he left the institution.

The earl yreport was vague as to the identity of the wounded man, but Captain Michael J. Brennan of the Brattle square station ordered a thorough investigation by Sergeant John King.

According to information, a telephone call for an ambulance was received by the Brattle square station. On arrival at the house with the ambulance, Cambridge officers are said to have discovered their Boston colleague suffering from two stab

ARREST FOUR MORE IN $500,000 SHIP THEFT

Location of more stolen funds in the gigantic Eastern Eastern Steamship Company theft that may total $500,000 was announced by District Attorney William J. Foley in Superior Court today.

Monies stolen from the steamship company already have been found in Detroit, Cincinnati and Boston. The announcement of the discovery of further loot came as the court was setting bail of $875,000 for the eight persons arrested on indictments returned by the Grand Jury.

The arrest of the ninth person, for whom an indictment warrant has been issued, may bring the total of bail for all defendants in the gigantic conspiracy to $1,000,000.

Bail of the defendants was set by Judge Frederick Fosdick in Superior

COOLIDGE IN FAVOR OF FORCING MEXICO CLAIM

Washington, Jan. 10 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge believes that the American government should prosecute as rapidly as possible the claims of its citizens against Mexico, it was announced at the White House today. These claims total more than $600,000,000.

He did not favor, however, the suggestion of Senator King (D.) of Utah that Ambassador Morrow would put the claims at the head of the diplomatic schedule.

The President said that the claims are now being adjudicated by two commissions in the hands of which the matter should be left.

Mexico City, Jan. 10.—Exhausted after days of hardship, Lyman F. Barber, American mining engineer, kidnaped December 15 by Mexican bandits, today is recuperating here under the ministrations of his wife after effecting his escape from the bandit camp in melodramatic fashion.

According to the story Barber gasped to friends after his arrival here, he and his servant escaped on the eve of their execution by the bandits because a third demand for ransom had not been complied with.

The escape followed Barber's doping four Mexican guards with smuggled cognac and then killing them with bottles and stones he had col-

WIFE SEES JUDD GRAY IN DEATH CELL TO SAY GOODBY AND FORGIVE

by JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Sing Sing Prison, Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Henry Judd Gray, who is to die in the electric chair Thursday night, received an unexpected visit from his wife, Mrs. Isabel Gray, in the Death House here today.

The meeting was pathetic and the sashweight slayer of Albert Snyder, the art editor, showed emotion for the first time in weeks.

It was Mrs. Gray's final farewell to her husband. She has visited him only once before since he went behind the grim walls of Sing Sing. She was stunned by the tragedy which wrecked her home, robbed her daughter, Jane, of a father and disgraced her name. She has been on the verge of a collapse for weeks at the home of her brother-in-law in Norwalk, Ct., and has refused herself to all callers.

Ruth Brown Snyder, the blonde co-slayer, who also dies in a little more than forty-eight hours, was not aware that Mrs. Gray was calling upon her former lover.

The two women have never spoken.

Great secrecy marked the visit of

TROTZKY AMONG 30 RED LEADERS TO BE EXILED

Berlin, Jan. 10 (I.N.S.).—The Soviet political police, according to reports from Moscow today, have ordered into exile thirty leaders of the opposition, including the following men who were formerly all-powerful in the Communist party and the Soviets:

Leon Trotzky, former Commissar for War and Marine and confidant of Lenine.

Leo Kamenev, brother-in-law of Trotzky and once regarded as the foremost economist of the Soviet regime.

Christian Ravesky, leading member of the Soviet diplomatic service and lately Soviet ambasador to France.

Karl Kadek, formerly known as the chief Communist propagandist in the world and one-time special envoy from Moscow to Berlin.

Gregory Zinoviev, former chief of the Leningrad Soviet and a member

ONE DEAD, ONE HURT AS GRAFTON PLANE FALLS

Grafton, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—George W. Knowlton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Knowlton of West Upton, was killed and Captain Henry E. Stickney of Hartford, pilot of the N. E. Aircraft Corp. at Worcester aviation field in North Grafton was injured probably fatally today when a plane in which Stickney was giving instruction to Knowlton made a nose dive of several hundred feet.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WEAK

Stocks were weak in late Wall Street trading today as yesterday's reaction was continued. New Haven at 63 5-8, up a point, moved against the trend. Midland Steel pfd. lowered 5 at 260. General Motors was off 1 1-2 at 132 before rallying. U. S. Steel was steady.

DESPONDENT RICH MAN SEEKS TO END HIS LIFE

New York, Jan. 10. — A. Albert Sack, Providence millionaire, is in a Brooklyn hospital, a victim, according to the police, of an attempt at suicide.

Despite the fact that he is very wealthy, and married only a few months ago to a beautiful girl, the police are convinced that the man they found in the bathroom of his suite at the St. Charles Hotel, Brooklyn, blood staining his evening clothes, attempted his own life with a safety razor blade.

NO SEDATIVES FOR RUTH

Mrs. Gray to the prison. It was learned that she arrived at the jail at seven o'clock this morning, accompanied by a man whose name was not disclosed.

Mrs. Gray left the prison at 12:15 this afternoon. She had been with her husband for over five hours. She was escorted to a gate near the south end of the prison and spirited away in an automobile. She declined to make any statement.

WIFE FORGIVES GRAY.

One of the guards, however, said both Gray and Mrs. Gray were greatly affected by their meeting under such sad circumstances.

"She forgave him," the guard said. "And when she was going she said a tearful good-bye."

Gray also expected a visit from Haddon Gray of Syracuse, N. Y. It was to Haddon Gray's home that Judd rushed after he had bludgeoned Snyder to death in his home in Queen's Village. They had been friends since boyhood and Haddon is anxious to say a final farewell to Judd.

Both Gray and Mrs. Snyder slept well last night. Gray was awake as early as 6 o'clock, but Mrs. Snyder slept late. She spent some time writing after she had breakfast.

EXPECTS HER ATTORNEYS.

She was anticipating a visit this afternoon from her attorneys, Edgar F. Hazelton, Dana Wallace and Joseph Lonardo, and she planned to discuss with them their final efforts to stay her execution.

Lonardo, in opposition to the wishes of Hazelton and Wallace, is preparing to make a last minute move in a Federal court in New York to delay the execution. He wants Mrs. Snyder to sign an appeal for a writ of habeas corpus written entirely in the first person. If she does this he said he would present it to a Federal judge. Hazelton and Wallace are opposed to any court action until after Governor Alfred E. Smith passes on the appeal they made last week in Albany for a stay of execution.

SEEKS STAY OF EXECUTION.

Attorney Lonardo would ask the federal judge to halt the execution on the ground that Mrs. Snyder had not been accorded all her rights guaranteed under the constitution. He would claim the execution would be unconstitutional because she was forced to stand trial jointly with Gray, a co-defendant, in violation of her constitutional rights.

He believes if the federal judge received the application for the writ of habeas corpus and set a date for its hearing this would automatically stay the execution.

The State Lunacy Commission today will visit the death house for final observation of the condemned pair. The visit is the regular order of procedure, Commissioner of Corrections Raymond Kieb said today, and is made to determine if there has been any change in the condition of condemned persons as the hour of execution nears.

Ruth and Judd will not be given sedatives—or "dope" of any kind—to quiet their nerves just before they start on their tragic march to the death house on Thursday night, Dr. C. C. Sweet, Sing Sing physician, said today.

NO DOPE FOR THEM.

"We never do it and will not in their cases," Dr. Sweet declared emphatically.

He said there was no truth in reports that the condemned couple are on the verge of collapse.

"I have visited both of them," he asserted, "and found them in as good condition as could be expected. Except for nervous upsets Mrs. Snyder is perfectly normal. She eats well and sleeps sufficiently, although rather fitfully. She is by far the most agitated of the two.

"Gray is strong physically and mentally. He seems resigned to his fate. He shows no indication whatever of fear."

Dr. Sweet said it was "hard to say" how Mrs. Snyder would act when she is notified that her time has come to die. Gray, he predicted, "probably will go like nearly all condemned persons—bravely."

"I have seen 21 persons electrocuted since I have been Sing Sing physician, and I never knew of a single instance when one of them had to be carried to the chair," Dr. Sweet declared.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, former Sing Sing physician, who has witnessed 138 electrocutions here, told International News Service that only one of them had to be carried to the chair.

BODY IS NOT BURNED.

Both physicians said that, in their opinion, electrocution is the most painless form of execution yet devised.

"It is almost instantaneous," Dr. Sweet explained. "It requires only one five-hundredth of a second until consciousness disappears.

"I don't know what it is, but something seems to buoy up condemned persons just before they go to the chair. Usually it is their religious faith, I suppose. Some of them actually go to the chair with an exalted feeling, oblivious of their surroundings, as if their thoughts are in another world."

Dr. Sweet said electrocution has become such a scientific procedure that no longer is the head, body or legs of the victim burned by contact with the electrodes when the current is turned on. He added that pathologists now take part in the autopsy for the purpose of examining the brain cells of the electrocuted criminal to determine whether, as supposed by medical authorities, the brain cells of criminals are smaller than those of normal persons.

A desperate serenity has come over both Mrs. Snyder and Gray, according to other attaches of Sing

Hub Women Would Show Ruth No Mercy

"Ruth Snyder had no mercy, therefore she deserves none and should die."

Such appears to be the majority opinion among working girls, home girls and married women in Greater Boston, who have written to the editor of the Boston Evening American.

Favoring the condemned woman, a Stoneham mother hopes, for the sake of the daughter, Lorraine, that Governor Smith will grant executive clemency.

Here are some of the writers' opinions, expressed in their own words:

CELIA SCHMUKLER, Boston University Law School—I have no sympathy for Mrs Snyder. Let her pay the penalty. If capital punishment exists, and if the country sees fit to carry it out to the letter, then Ruth Snyder deserves the chair. It was a most atrocious crime. I don't believe in capital punishment as a policy, but since the American government endorses it, justice should be served.

ROSE FALLON, Roxbury—Ruth Snyder is equally guilty with Henry Judd Gray and should suffer for the crime. A horrible crime backed by such vicious motives does not make them deserving of the compassion or sympathy of wholesome-minded people.

MARION HANNON, Roslindale—How could a normal, home-loving, God-fearing woman be part of such a crime? How could she have planned it with a man to the last detail? Oh, it doesn't seem possible that Ruth Snyder is a woman. She is a fiend. She should go to the chair, if only to carry out the law so that other women with similar tendencies may be warned of the disgrace and punishment.

EDNA MAE EVANS, Everett—The world will be well rid of a woman such as Ruth Snyder and her paramour. She robbed little Lorraine of her father and knew it through her planning. Governor Smith should not interfere. They should pay the price.

LLEN TAYLOR, Boston—Ruth as a woman should not be favored any more than a man who has murdered. Didn't Albert Snyder love life as dearly as she does now? The thought of her baby and mother should have kept her from sin. Mother love seeks to protect, not to disgrace and destroy. I would give her no mercy on account of her sex.

DA FISHMAN, Dorchester—Did Ruth Snyder think of Lorraine when she committed such a crime? No! Then make her suffer too. The electric chair is too easy a death. She and Gray should suffer as they made poor Mr. Snyder suffer.

MRS. HARRY D. MOORE, Stoneham—Mrs. Ruth Snyder should not die, as she was not in her right mind at the time of this crime. Her child will never forget. A mother is a mother the world over. I know Mrs. Snyder is sorry today, and I hope that the Governor will save her from the chair for her child's sake.

Should Ruth live or die? Your opinion is invited. Write now, and address City Editor, Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

'Ruth's Death Will Kill Mother,' Says Lawyer

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 10.—If Ruth Snyder goes to the electric chair, the State will, by that one stroke of Robert Elliott's lethal arm, execute two persons.

Mrs. Josephine Brown, Ruth's mother, will not live through the night if her daughter is executed, Edgar F. Hazelton, chief counsel for Mrs. Snyder, asserted today.

"Mrs. Brown's condition is such that her life hangs by the slightest thread," Hazelton said. "Physicians who have seen her have told us that she will collapse and never recover from the shock.

"She is little more than a dead woman now. Her mind is almost a blank and her body but a hollow shell of the strong, virile woman who worked day and night before this tragedy came into her advancing years.

"Her color is gone and her pallor is much more the prison pallor than is her daughter's. She is the real victim."

Mystery in Ruth's Last Minute Life Plea

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 10. — A mysterious last-minute letter, delivered to Joseph Lonardo, one of Ruth Snyder's counsel, today by Andrew Brown, her brother, and written yesterday by the condemned woman, may play a vital part in remaining efforts to save her from the death-chair.

Lonardo refused to reveal the contents of the letter today.

It was passed by Warden Lewis E. Lawes, he said, and was sent to Lonardo through Brown because Lonardo has been barred from the deathhouse as a result of smuggling certain matter out of Mrs. Snyder's cell.

The letter may be the last written by Mrs. Snyder to the outside world for she is doomed to die on Thursday with Judd Gray for the murder of her husband.

PONTIFF ASKS 'DISSENTERS' TO RETURN

Rome, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Pope Pius today issued an encyclical which is taken here to remove all hopes concerning the possibility of the resumption of the famous "Malines conversations" of recent years, which sought to find a means of reuniting the Anglicans with Rome.

The late Cardinal Mercier, Archbishop of Malines, Lord Halifax of England and other prelates and laymen took part in these conversations.

The Pontiff, in his encyclical, said a union of Christians can only come by a return of the dissenting to the original Church of Rome.

REFUSES ARGUMENTS.

In the document, which is the first encyclical of the new year, the pontiff restated the church's age-long stand upon the question, emphasizing that while it is good to cultivate charity among Christians, it should not be done to the detriment of the faith upon which that very charity is founded.

The document concludes with a refutation of various non-Catholic arguments in favor of the unionist thesis and says that unity cannot be achieved except by a return of non-Catholics to the Church of Rome.

The encyclical concludes with an appeal to the "separated sons" and with the wish that the day may come soon in which "all the erring will finally return to the paternal embrace of the successor of St. Peter."

"GOD REVEALED WAY."

"God the creator," says the Pontiff, "is also the revealer to man of the way in which He wishes to be honored and served. That is the real religion for which He founded His church on earth. The duty of the human being therefore is to believe God's revelations and consequently to adhere to the church, but not that which is supported by those in error, but to cling to that church which in verity was willed and founded by Christ and which by the promise of Christ's own assistance preserves as one and identical throughout the centuries, name-

Drank Poison

MARGARET HAM

Waltham girl, 19, committed suicide by drinking poison at Kingston and Bedford streets. Her body was identified by her mother today.

IDENTIFY GIRL SUICIDE; 2D MISSING

Identification of the mystery girl who committed suicide at Kingston and Bedford streets as 19-year-old Margaret W. Ham of Ash street, Waltham, today brought the revelation that another Waltham girl has been missing since June 1.

She is Irene Connolly, 22, of Bolton street, Waltham, whose mother reported to the police that she had heard nothing from the girl since the first of June. The only description the authorities have is that the missing girl is 5 feet 5 inches tall, with gold fillings in her front teeth.

Her mother made the report aft Mrs. Alice Ham of Ash street, Waltham, had identified the dead girl as her daughter Margaret. The matter was brought to her attention by newspaper description, and the fact that the girl who had drunk poison murmured "Waltham" as she died.

It was learned that Miss Ham had recently quarrelled with a young man with whom she had been keeping company, this being the second break between the couple. It was also learned that the girl had left home before, which was the reason given by her mother for failing to report her disappearance. The girl left Waltham Sunday night ostensibly to meet her mother, the police were informed. Instead she went to Boston it would appear. Her father is said to be in Vermont.

COPLEY-PLAZA HOST HALTED SUNDAY DANCE

Admission that there was dancing in the Copley-Plaza Hotel early Sunday morning, January 1, was made before the Licensing Board today by Manager Arthur L. Race of the hotel, but he declared it was without his permission and he halted the dancers upon learning the situation.

Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley, the only other witness at the hearing on the dance complaint, testified that he saw the dancing in the Sheraton room, but that when Manager Race came into the room and ordered the dancers to desist, they did so immediately.

The superintendent said that he entered the Sheraton room, by a side door, at 12:55 a. m., after being unable to gain entrance through the main door. An orchestra was playing on the platform and 50 or 75 couples were dancing.

When Manager Race entered the room, according to the police head, he declared he did not know any dancing was in progress.

The hotel manager said that the dancers in the Sheraton room had remained as his personal guests, the invitation having been extended because of many reservation cancellations and the small crowd present.

He testified that he was in the kitchen with some other guests when an assistant came and informed him of the dancing. Race declared he went immediately to the Sheraton room and ordered the dancing to halt.

The licensing board took the case under advisement.

WAR MOTHERS' BILL FILED

In line with the move inaugurated by the Boston Evening American and other Hearst papers to send Gold Star mothers to the graves of their sons overseas, Michael A. O'Brien of No. 2 Pleasant street, Dorchester, today filed in the Massachusetts House of Representatives a bill asking that resolutions be adopted memorializing Congress to authorize the trip.

The expenses of the pilgrimage would be borne by the United States government.

"I was prompted to do this by the splendid articles in the Boston Evening American," said O'Brien. "Such a pilgrimage would be of world-wide interest. It would prove to the world that this nation has a heart and thinks of something besides dollars.

"When the bill comes up for hearing within the next two weeks, I hope to have representatives of many patriotic and fraternal organizations present to urge its passage. If the Legislature memorializes Congress it will help to crystallize sentiment in favor of this great project.

"Many mothers are not financially able to make the trip and it is only fair and just that the government should gratify so human a sentiment."

FANNIE WARD'S BEAUTY RECIPE OUTLINED

War on soap and water as skin cleaners, on meat, starches, sugar and pastries in the diet, and on companionate marriages is a part of the offensive outlined by Fannie Ward, perennial flapper, for Boston women against Father Time.

"Also, let me remark that too many women dig the graves of their youth and beauty with their teeth," she added. "Neglect of decaying teeth until it is too late to save them, and eating improper foods tell the story."

Miss Ward is appearing at the Metropolitan Theatre this week.

Miss Ward declares that soap and water coarsen the texture of the skin so that at middle age it is "like leather." Men should always use an astringent after shaving to preserve good skin texture.

Red meat is not good for anyone bent on cheating time, she says most emphatically. Fish, chicken and brains are the only articles fit to eat if you would avoid dangers of body toxins.

White bread and all starchy foods are taboo as well as sugar and pastries if you would keep the flapper figure. She weighs just 100 pounds and intends to stay at that weight indefinitely—the same weight she had when she was "Cupid" in 1890 at the height of her fame.

Companionate marriage is as risky for the woman as plastic surgery because she never knows how either will turn out.

2 RESCUED IN SHOP BLAZE

Braving death through a curtain of flame, firemen rescued a man and his wife and a hoseman was overcome when fire swept the basement antique shop of the four-story brick dwelling at No. 33 River street today.

Hoseman James M. Collins, 33, single, of No. 8 Lothrop street, Brighton, fell unconscious a victim of smoke inhalation. Applying the prone pressure method of resuscitation, Patrolmen Dwyer, Quinn, Powers and McCarthy of Joy street station brought him to. He was later transferred to Massachusetts General Hospital.

The antique shop was owned by Mrs. Jane F. Enwright, who with her husband John live on the first floor. They were asleep when the fire broke out.

Hysterical the woman attempted to jump, but was restrained by the cooler judgment of her husband. An 80-foot ladder was run up and firemen with gas masks groped through the windows while another detail forced their way through dense smoke up the stairs.

HELD FOR LARCENY COMMITTED IN 1925

Willimantic, Ct., Jan. 10.—Alvin Ladd, 26, of this city, is at the Windham County Jail awaiting trial on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny in the night time as the result of information recently obtained by the State Police while investigating the theft of two pigs and some clothing from a barn owned by George Buck in W[illegible] [illegible]

RICH MAN TRIES TO KILL SELF WITH RAZOR

Detective O'Connell, who questioned Sack, said the latter's only statement was:

"I cut my own throat. The reason I did it I will not state. I will keep it to myself, because it's nobody's business."

He made his attempt at death, it is declared, in the presence of his wife, Marian, a former actress, whom he married eight months ago.

Sack's brother George today said bootleg liquor was to blame for the suicide attempt. "He is recovering and will be out within a few days," said George, after visiting the patient in Long Island College Hospital.

"The whole trouble was something he drank. That turned his head and he didn't know what he was doing. He had only two or three drinks, but it made him irrational."

George denied reports that Albert had had any difficulties with his wife.

His name first became known to the general public when his father, A. Albert Sack, Sr., now dead, brought suit against him for $1,000,000. The basis of the suit, brought in Boston, was the old Biblical parable of the talents.

SUED BY FATHER.

The father, owner of the huge Lymanville mill and the company which still bears his name in Providence, gave $1,000,000 worth of property to each son, A. Albert, then a junior, and George.

The boys were to hold the property for one year, the father being anxious to see what each would do with it. They were to give the father half the income from the property and at the end of the year return the property to him if he so desired.

George made good, but Albert, in the opinion of his father at least, did not. His father claimed that this son had not given him half the income and had wasted the money. The suit was settled out of court.

At just this time young Albert was having trouble with his first wife which may have had something to do with his father's suit. Shortly after this episode Mrs. Louise W. Sack, a North Providence girl, divorced young Albert, and it was reported that she received alimony to the tune of $300,000, the largest Rhode Island had ever known.

She charged non-support though she said her husband was a millionaire, kept several automobiles, a private yacht and a large establishment with a Japanese butler at its head.

ly the Catholic Apostolic Roman Church."

However, the Pope says, those who separated, deny this unity of faith and the government of the real Church of Christ and would therefore prefer a union by means of an accord on a few points, which they regard as "fundamental." As to the rest, each one would retain his own opinions for which they in other times separated from the Church.

That, continues the Pontiff, is leading truth into error and into bargainings and human transactions which would be treacherous and which the Roman Catholic Church has always resisted and necessarily continues to resist.

The Roman Church, the encyclical continues, proposes one clear entire evangelical doctrine for all, since God has not spoken for a few, but for everyone. Certainly, it is a good thing to cultivate charity between Christians, the encyclical says, but not to the detriment of the faith upon which that very charity was founded.

The Pope concludes:

"It is impossible for Christ's disciples to differ among themselves on the verity of their faith. It is impossible to conceive a Christian society of faithful who are free to follow each one his own way of thinking of faith."

wounds in the left arm which were bleeding freely.

He was taken to the hospital, where he refused to give any address, and immediately after his wounds were dressed hurried away. Cambridge police appeared vague as to the man's identity and injuries, even going so far as to say they thought he had cut himself while shaving.

When Captain Brennan went on duty he recognized in the police blotter the house in which the stabbing occurred and demanded Sergeant King obtain the facts.

When Sergeant King and his men reached the house the occupants were absent, whereupon they settled down to await their return.

It is understood an investigation will be made by Boston police authorities.

SHIP THEFT BAIL MAY BE MILLION DOLLARS

Court as follows: George W. Gordon, $175,000; Meyer Friedman, $120,000; Etta Hessell Gordon, $120,000; Nicholas Tedesco, $40,000; Zella Hessell, $75,000; Max Hessell, $75,000; Sam Hessell, $100,000, and Mrs. Rae Hessell Weichmann, $150,000.

All eight are now held on indictment charges, Gordon, his wife, Friedman and Tedesco having been placed under arrest on the indictment warrants when they appeared in lower court before Judge Murray today to answer to a larceny charge. The other four had previously been taken into custody and the high bail set.

All under arrest are charged in the indictment with being principles in the theft it was revealed at the hearing in Superior Court, at which District Attorney William J. Foley made his plea for high bail.

A charge of larceny of $175,000 is specifically named against each. Gordon is charged with conspiracy to steal from the steamship company, conspiracy on another count, larceny and receiving more than $100 in both May and July of last year, and 42 counts of larceny between September 1 and November 26 of 1927.

GORDON BAIL.

Gordon's bail was set at $25,000 on each of seven counts; Friedman's bail at $20,000 on each of six counts; Mrs. Gordon's bail at $20,000 on each of six counts and Tedesco's bail at $10,000 on each of four counts.

"Since I last spoke in this court," said the district attorney, "we have learned of more money deposited in safety deposit vaults in Detroit and other cities and I again ask substantial bail as high as placed on the other defendants, with the exception of Tedesco who, the company believes, is not as responsible as the others."

Thomas Grady, as Tedesco's counsel, made a plea for low bail in the case of his client, pointing out what he claimed was inconsistency in naming each of the arrested a principle in the theft. "His only connection with the case is through marriage," he said.

"He has already returned some of the loot," interrupted District Attorney Foley.

HAVE NOT SPOKEN.

Denying this, Grady said: "Max Hessell, one defendant who, I believe, has made a statement to the government is a brother-in-law of my client and he is not a man whose word this court should take.' Tedesco and Hessell have not spoken for months, he said.

"It is peculiar Tedescos' wife is not here," said Grady, with some anger.

"Do you want to have his wife arrested?" asked Foley.

"Yes, if she's guilty," came the answer.

"Give us a list of the Hassells and we'll get them all," responded the district attorney.

Grady made a plea for $15,000 bail for Tedesco. This bail, he said, would be furnished. When Judge Fosdick set Tedesco's bail at $40,000, Grady asked for immediate assignment of the case.

NO DRUGS FOR RUTH SNYDER

Sing. Mrs. Snyder had almost ceased to have emotional seizures and Gray is deadly calm. Mrs. Snyder talked at length with her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, and even went so far as to discuss her funeral arrangements. It was reported she told her mother she wanted to die in silk, instead of the coarse, cotton gingham clothing that the State had issued to her.

Mrs. Brown declined to give out the details of the plans for Mrs Snyder's funeral. She indicated, however, that her daughter has chosen the sport where she wishes to be buried.

Gray has made his final preparations for the grave. He has finished his will, which makes his wife, Mrs. Isabella Gray, and his ten-year-old daughter, Jane, his sole beneficiaries. A copy of the will now reposes in the office of Warden Lewis E. Lawes.

Mrs. Snyder's lawyers are still undecided whether to take her ten-year-old daughter, Lorraine, to visit her once more before she goes. Attorney Edgar F. Hazelton planned to pay a visit to the condemned woman soon to apprise her of his eleventh hour efforts to prevent the execution.

FIGHTS TO THE LAST

"I will not tell her we have given up hope," said Hazelton, "for we have not. We play out the string in our efforts to save her."

One of Mrs. Snyder's last hopes disappeared when State Assemblyman Christopher C. McGrath of the Bronx announced he had withdrawn his anti-capital punishment bill which he had introduced in the Legislature yesterday. So as not to embarrass Governor Smith in deciding the Snyder clemency appeal. He said he would not introduce the bill until after the date of the execution.

Governor Smith said he would announce his decision in the pleas for clemency for the condemned couple "when he is good and ready." He seemed much more concerned about the illness of his wife who was operated upon for appendicitis in New York City.

Both Gray and Mrs. Snyder were placed in new cells today. They will be transferred again late today and still again tomorrow. This precaution is taken with all prisoners in their last few days in each instance the vacated cells being examined to learn whether suicide mediums have been smuggled to them.

GIRL TO FACE TRIAL ON CHECK FORGING CHARGES

Steadfastly maintaining silence about the identity of the man she says forced her to cash worthless checks, Miss Frances M. Farlow, 19, whose last known address was No. 70 Astor street, Back Bay, was arraigned in Central Municipal Court before Judge Murray and will go to trial on two charges of forging and uttering.

PRISONER WHO KILLED KEEPER ON TRIAL MONDAY

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Alexander Kalinowski, Erie County convict, and considered Auburn prison's "bad man," will be placed on trial next Monday before Justice A. J. Rodenbeck of Rochester and a jury, for the murder of Principal Keeper James B. Durnin, at the prison, November 17. District Attorney Benn Kenyon will prosecute the case.

22 STRAY DOGS PICKED UP IN WEST ROXBURY

The West Roxbury police wagon devoted a day mainly to dog-catching as a result of orders by Captain James T. Smith to round up all unleashed dogs in the district. During the previous few days, dogs were brought in in groups of four and five. The day's total was 22. The dogs will be turned over to the Animal Rescue League.

'12 O'clock Girl Torture to 10 O'clock Family'

London, Jan. 10 (I.N.S.).—Declaring that a "twelve o'clock girl is a nuisance and a torture to a ten o'clock family," the Rev Father Joseph Degan of Coalsville, Leicestershire, whose criticism of the modern girl has made him one of the best known personalities in the British Catholic Church, has issued another set of "safety first" rules to parents.

Some moral pointers from his latest list include the following.

"A good mother who cares for her children, and values their immortal souls, would not go to bed leaving the back door unlocked to enable her midnight prowling daughters to come in at any hour they liked.

"It is very unjust, but the world always brands the parents for the sins of a prodigal daughter.

"To describe chance flirtations with strangers as having 'a bit of fun' or 'a good time' is to blind young people to the perils involved."

MARINES FACE NEW FIGHT IN NICARAGUA

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—United States Marines were dispatched yesterday for Somotillo, a town in the department of Chinandega, near the Honduran frontier where a serious situation is reported.

It was there the ten Nicaragua National Guardsmen, with a noncommissioned officer, deserted from the National Guard column on Sunday, joining the Honduran general Higinio Peralta, a well-known revolutionist.

The Marine officer commanding the column at Somotillo went to Villanueva to secure additional guardsmen, but when he returned he was unable to enter Somotillo, as the entire populace was in revolt.

Communication has been cut off to a large extent, the Sandino forces having destroyed the telegraph lines.

VANDALS AGAIN ATTACK ROBERT G. SHAW STATUE

An unsuccessful attempt was made some time Saturday to break the steel sword held in the hand of the statue of Robert Gould Shaw in front of the State House. The sturdy steel, which replaced the bronze sword broken last May by a vandal, withstood the force applied to it.

When the police were notified it was found that the sword was bent about midway of its length, the point being directed to the stirrup of the famous rider of Civil War days, nearly 45 degrees out of its normal position.

AMOSKEAG WATCHMAN ACCUSED OF THEFTS

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Napoleon C. Garon, night watchman employed by the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, pleaded not guilty in Municipal Court today to a charge of embezzlement of cloth from the mill. Waiving examination, his bail was fixed at $300 for appearance at the May term of Superior Court. Garon, it is alleged, has admitted to authorities that he has been taking cloth from the mills for about a year. In his home in Turner street, authorities allege finding cloth in nearly every room.

Stockbridge, Jan. 10.—Plunged into the frigid waters of Shaker Pond in West Stockbridge when the ice gave way, Victor Gennari, father of nine children, was drowned. Gennari was taking a short cut to work at the Lime plant.

PUPILS MARCH IN STRIKE TO I. W. W. SONGS

Frederick, Col., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Between 75 and 100 school children who went on strike here yesterday and paraded through the streets singing I. W. W. songs were reinstated today, but Annie Riskolski sixteen, leader of the demonstration, and her brother, James, ten were under suspension.

The strike was called after Paul Nicholson, superintendent of the Frederick public school, had suspended James Riskolski for a fistic encounter with another boy during an argument over the I. W. W. coal strike in Colorado and later suspended his sister for her remarks in defending James.

Annie called the pupils to the school yard and addressed them with all the fluency of a seasoned orator

"I can't go to school because I'm a Wobbly," she said. "Come on you Wobbly kids, and we'll do this thing the way the Wobblies do it."

Then the children started a march through the streets with an American flag at their head. They shouted and sang I. W. W. songs.

EW HAMPSHIRE, B. & M. SETTLE TAX QUESTION

Concord, N. H., Jan. 10.—Settlement by friendly compromise of the questions which have existed between the tax commission and [illegible] ston & Maine Railroad as to the amount of tax which the railroad should be fairly assessed in New Hampshire was announced today.

In a statement issued by representatives of the railroad and the State, a formal expression of the friendly compromise, it was stated that " [illegible] a step toward fur [illegible] friendly relations between the railroad and the State . . . the railroad waives the right to question the 1925 and 1926 assessments and receives a reduction in the 1927 valuation from $38,000,000 to $36,500,000, with consequent rebate in taxes of $42,000."

HARVARD LECTURER GETS FAR-EASTERN POST

Washington, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The appointment of Stanley K. Hornbeck of Massachusetts, as chief of the division of Far Eastern Affairs, was announced today at the State Department. Hornbeck, a lecturer on history of the Far East at Harvard University, will begin his new duties February 15. The post had been vacant since the appointment of Nelson T. Johnson to be assistent secretary of State. Hornbeck was a far eastern expert on the American-Paris peace conference and Washington arms conference commissions.

LATEST DEB PARTY BRILLIANT, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Miss Miriam Winslow Makes Formal Bow to Boston Society at Her Parents' Magnificent Home in Clyde Street, Brookline

LIGHTS TWINKLED FROM EVERY MANY-PANED WINDOW OF PALATIAL FERNWOOD IN Clyde street Brookline, and from end to end the mansion was en fete as youthful friends of Miss Miriam Winslow danced last evening and way into the morning in honor of her coming out. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney W. Winslow, Jr., and never could debutante have had more delightful setting for advent into the social arena. Fernwood rejoices in all the mellow beauty of a baronial English home centuries old with enormous vaulted halls, spacious apartments and galleries.

IN THE MAGNIFICENT HALL, WITH HIGH VAULTED CEILING AND BALCONIES, Mrs. Winslow and her daughter received their guests. Both mother and daughter were in white, Mrs. Winslow wearing a beaded crepe that was simplicity in outline but richness in its scintillating embroidery. Miss Winslow was in shimmering velvet, the debutante's choice almost without exception for her coming out ball,—a soft white, transparent fabric of crystal tint, straightline and effectively unadorned save for an enormous rhinestone buckle at one shoulder.

THE DEBUTANTE'S ELDER SISTER, MRS. CASPER RANGER (ALICE WARRENE WINSLOW) was a special guest and a charming one, and, of course greatly interested in her sister's party, since she herself both came out and was married a Fernwood in similarly beautiful settings. Such a place as Fernwood needs almost nothing of floral display as added beauty, so very wisely Mrs. Winslow for the dance allowed only the simplest motif of pink, in the dining room and through the galleries.

EVERY WELL REGULATED DEBUTANTE BALL COMMENCES WITH ITS ushers' dinner—and last evening the hospitality preceding Miss Winslow's party came off as per schedule with Mrs. Lawrence Ewing of Greenfield, aunt of Miss Winslow, as hostess. It was at the Algonquin Club and some forty young people were guests. At least, the majority were young people since of the seniors there were only Mr. and Mrs. Winslow, Mr. Ewing and the hostess.

MRS. RANGER WORE AN EFFECTIVE PICTURE GOWN OF BLACK TAFFETA showing a suggestion of rose pink through its hem of openwork outlined in crystals. Mrs. Ewing wore black velvet, its decolletage defined with brilliants. Miss Betty Ranger and Miss Eleanor Colahan were house and dinner and ball guests, and others of Miss Winslow's intimate coterie bidden to both dinner and dance were Miss Peggy Creighton, Miss Betty Swift, Miss Gloria Braggiotti, Miss Dana Sieveling, Miss Louise Parker, Miss Margaret Barnum, Miss Florence Deane Ward and Miss Peggy Read.

ALSO, MISS LUCY WARREN, MISS LUCY HILL AND MISS MARJORIE SMEAD. Usher duties devolved upon such young men as Jack Norton, Henry Bassett, Jack Hill, Wallace Warren, John Ward, John Stetson, Payson Carver, Pearson Rhodes, Henry Morse, Frank O'Brien, Eliot Ware, Edward Hassett and Richard Edwards, altogether a most efficient staff to wear the white boutonniere of office, and a pleasant group to be special guests at the preliminary dinner.

WHEN MRS. THEODORE FROTHINGHAM sets her pretty head to work on a problem there is always a brilliant solution to be expected. Just now she's pulling strings (and she can pull countless of these invisible connections, to make the "cabaret" portion of the "Infants Hospital Cabaret and Black and White Ball" brilliantly professional. Mrs. Frothingham has already lined up enough stage stars for the cabaret that admission charge should be doubled, but not content she is ever on the search for new dazzlements. She and Mr. Frothingham have an apartment at the Hotel Charlesgate this Winter, and are not occupying their town house.

(Boston Evening American Photo)

MIRIAM WINSLOW

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Winslow, Jr., gave a house dance for her last evening at their magnificent home in Clyde street, Brookline.

IT'S VERY TRUE THAT BOSTON BOASTS NO SUCH FASHIONABLE PROMENADE AS PARK AVENUE, but it is pleasant to hear now and then of a very smart young matron with a definite Boston affiliation gracing that fashionable thoroughfare. Mrs. Eugene Van Rensselaer Thayer strolled down the avenue one afternoon, beautifully costumed and looking radiant. Mrs. Thayer was, before she became Mrs. Thayer, the spouse of "Freddy" Prince, of Princemere, and her maiden cognomen was Harding, she being daughter to W. P. G. Harding, financier and a personage in official Washington.

TO SIP A CUP OF TEA IN THE BASIL KINGS' CHARMING CAMBRIDGE DRAWINGROOM IS THE privilege friends of these well known literary folk are accorded each Tuesday. Late on the afternoon of that day, each week, the rite of the teacup is observed and there is a pleasant hour of conversation, in a fashion more reminiscent of yesterday's leisureliness than typical of today's rapidity. Mrs. Reginald W Orcutt (Penelope King) who inherits from her author father a very pretty literary talent, is abroad this Winter with Mr. Orcutt, and I hear their travels will extend into Egypt before they return this way.

ALSO SLIGHTLY REMINISCENT OF YESTERDAY'S MANNER IN SOCIAL PLEASANTRIES IS THE luncheon Mrs. George Lewis, Jr., gives this week to her Sewing Circle mates. This is the custom of less than ten years ago continued ever so pleasantly, when Sewing Circles for debutantes were formed each year and a periodical luncheon was indulged in. Now the overwhelming numbers of buds each season makes the Sewing Circle, as such, quite impossible. So the small and intimate Circle now has lost identity in the larger Junior League, wherein a hundred debs may find membership each year as against the old time Sewing Circle of twenty or thirty members.

BLOOD PRESSURE 200

Watch your blood pressure! If it's 180 or 200 instead of 120, it's a sign to be careful. High blood pressure cuts years off one's life. Heart palpitation, dizziness and difficulty are symptoms of high blood pressure, the result of our modern abnormal habits of life which put too great a strain upon the liver.

The liver becoming sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the toxic poisons formed in food waste, which then permeate the whole system, affecting heart, blood pressure and blood vessels. The liver needs a little help occasionally. Nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to real health.

Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few soon tell.

POLICE HUNT 3 IN HOLDUP OF 'L' BUS

Three youths, one armed, another drunk, held up an Elevated bus at gun point in Wolcott square, Hyde Park, and in real wild West fashion and robbed the operator of $27 in bills and change.

They fled in a stolen sedan, which was later recovered by Captain Livingston's squad in Gainsborough street. In it were found remnants of the broken coin machine and six .32-calibre bullets.

Shortly after midnight three well dressed youths, none over 20, approached Wolcott square in a costly sedan and parked.

Just then the bus, with no passengers and operated by Arthur J. Harvey of No. 84 Hyde Park avenue, rounded a corner. It was bound from Forest Hills to Hyde Park.

The sedan came ahead and crowded the bus to the curb. With one of their number brandishing a pistol, the trio hopped into the door and ordered the driver to leave. He complied.

While one bandit robbed him of $12 and covered him, the other two seized a change machine containing $15 in dimes and quarters.

HUB FLERS CITED FOR FLOOD AID

Forty-two officers and enlisted men, including four at the Boston Airport, today received from Major General Preston Brown, commanding the First Corps Area, special commendation for their work in the army's flood relief operations in New England.

Captain Christopher W. Ford and Lieutenant Richard E. Cobb, attached to the air service here, were commended for "their devotion to duty, their tireless energy and successful accomplishment of all missions, carried out over the mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire in rain, snow and hail storms where a forced landing normally meant death or serious injury."

Staff Sergeant Gilbert Layman and Corporal Lyle E. Halstead, also of the Boston Airport, were commended for their care of planes and engines which resulted in an entire absence of forced landings during the period of the work.

Many officers attached to Fort Ethan Allen and Mitchel Field, L. I., received special commendation for rescues, resourcefulness and efficiency in the face of great odds.

BANKERS ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

Today was Boston Bank Day. All the national banks, with one exception, and many of the trust companies, held their annual meetings of stockholders and elections of officers and directors. The Second National, the exception, holds its meeting tomorrow.

With only one merger during 1927, the past year witnessed an expansion of banking facilities rather than the contraction that has taken place during the past few years through consolidations. The one merger was the absorbing of the Citizens' National Bank by the National Shawmut.

During the year the Lee, Higginson Trust Company and the Peabody Trust Company were established.

Increases in capitalization were quite general, the most notable being the First National Bank from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000; National Shawmut Bank from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, and the Old Colony Trust Company from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000. Investment trusts were formed by the National Shawmut and Old Colony.

Elections were as follows:

Federal National Bank—(re-elected) Daniel C. Mulloney, president; Joseph H. O'Neil, chairman of the board; Theodore M. Logan, vice president; Albion F. Bemis, vice-president and cashier; John T. Morrissey, comptroler; Alex W. Chisholm, assistant vice president; Arthur J. Brady, assistant vice president; George L. Whitehouse, assistant cashier; James F. Quinn, assistant cashier, Joseph L. McNamara, assistant cashier and Michael T. Kelleher, assistant cashier. Directors: Philip J. Baird, Albion F. Bemis, Hiram M. Burton, John A. Deery, William H. Dolan, John M. Emerson, Timothy J. Falvey, Theodore M. Logan, William H. Mooney, Daiel C. Mulloney and Joseph H. O'Neil.

Merchants National Bank—(re-elected) Directors: Robert S. Bradley, Robert D. Brewer, Douglas Crocker, Allen Curtis, Louis Curtis, Jr., Ernest B. Dane, Frederick A. Flather, William S. Forbes, Alfred D. Foster, N. Penrose Hallowell, J. Lovell Johnson, Russel B. Lowe, Joseph P. Manning, Robert W. Maynard, Samuel D. Parker, W. Rodman Peabody, James L. Richards, Alfred L. Ripley, Pierpont L. Stackpole, Charles Stetson, Howard Stockton and Aolnzo P. Weeks. John L. Hall was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Charles F. Choate, Jr.

United States Trust Company—All officers re-elected. Directors: (re-elected) Albert E. Pillsbury, Fred S. High, Charles W. Gammons, George F. Schraft, Paul D. Fitzpatrick, Edward C. Stone, Alan R. Morse, William F. Garcelon, Charles H. Sherburne, Charles A. Pastene, Nelson Curtis, Henry P. Tilden, Leon Strauss, J. Howard Edwards and A. C. Ratshesky.

Atlantic National Bank—Officers (re-elected) Herbert K. Hallett, chairman of the board; Edgar R. Champlin, vice-chairman of the board; George S. Mumford, president, and the following vice-presidents: Arthur P. Stone, Arthur W. Haines, Waldron H. Rand, Jr., Charles W. Bailey, Stephen W. Holmes, Russell B. Spear, Charles W. Varey, Arthur R. Smith, Charles E. Valentine, George H. Corey, Almon W. Blake, Elmer E. Stevens, Arnold Whittaker, Josiah H. Goddard and Cashier Edgar F. Hanscom.

MIX FIGHTS SUIT OF EX-WIFE FOR MORE MONEY

Los Angeles, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Tom Mix, cowboy hero of many gun battles on Hollywood movie lots, today announced he would contest his divorced wife's court petition for a $1,500 monthly allowance for the support of the daughter of the couple.

Giving notice that he would fight the petition for the increase from the present $50 monthly allowance, Mix, through his attorneys, declared that he had been giving his daughter, Ruth, now 16 years of age, sums considerably in excess of the amount required by the court roder granted when Mix and his former wife, Mrs. Olive S. Mix, were divorced in 1917.

A total of $15,000 was asserted to have been advanced in the last two weeks to the girl to cover expenses of her vaudeville career.

Mix's former wife declared he had amassed a fortune of $5,000,000 since the pair was divorced.

In Mrs. Mix's petition, filed here yesterday, she said that when the couple was divorced Mix was earning $1,000 a month, while at the present time his income was $20,000 weekly. Mix was ordered to appear January 20 and show cause why the $1,450 increase should not be granted.

2 KILLED BY TRAIN AT CONNECTICUT CROSSING

Manchester, Ct., Jan. 10.—Leo Hannon and John Horton, both of this city, were instantly killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck at a grade crossing here by a Hartford-bound New York to Boston express of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The men's bodies were found jammed above the cow-catcher of the locomotive, and the machine was thrown up on the tender and carried 50 feet before it slid off and down a 10-foot embankment.

Phelan Appointed

The Supreme Court has appointed James J. Phelan a member of the Franklin Foundation, to fill a vacancy occasioned by the death of John A. Sullivan.

DRY VOTE LOST TO SMITH, SAYS W. C. T. U. HEAD

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Womens Christian Temperance Union, delivering the keynote address of that organization's campaign conference today, said "the record and present attitude of Alfred E. Smith make it impossible for any dry to support him as a candidate for President."

"The people have spoken on the subject of liquor prohibition and in the election of a dry Congress," she declared. "Their voice will be heard in the election of a dry President."

Washington, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The plight of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray, and the details of their crime, make the best possible argument for prohibition, Mrs. Clem Shaver of Fairmont, W. Va., wife of the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said today in an address prepared for the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League.

"Nothing but whiskey made Mrs. Snyder and Gray lose all moral restraint," she declared.

Democrats Line Up for Convention Site Fight

Washington, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—With members of the Democratic National Committee arriving in Washington for the Jackson Day dinner and the meeting of the heads of the party, it became evident today a real fight was in prospect over the selection of the city which will stage the national convention this year.

Stimulus for the movement to have the convention held in Chicago was given with the arrival of George E. Brennan, committeeman for Illinois, who announced he would wage a stubborn battle for that city.

"We propose to have the convention meet at Soldiers Field, where the Dempsey-Tunney fight was held," he said. "A canvas could be thrown as a tent over the field. 150,000 people could be seated and loud speakers could be installed for broadcasting the convention to the country."

There was some talk today that St. Louis' chances might suffer because of the possible candidacy of Senator Reed, of that State. Cleveland, Detroit, and San Francisco are in the running, and Miami is putting up a fight.

TWO PAULDING MEN TELL OF S4 CRASH

The inquiry into the submarine S4 disaster turned sharply today along an angle patently designed to discover if the submarine's engines were working when the crash came with the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding.

To both witnesses of the session, eye-witnesses to the crash, question after question was put seeking to bring out whether the S4 propeller was turning over.

When the first bodies were removed from the submarine, the bodies of officers, who according to navy submarine experts, should have been in the craft's control room, were found in the engine room.

The pointed questions put to the witnesses today failed to bring out, however, whether the submarine's propellers were turning over.

VETERAN OF NAVY.

They did, nevertheless, bring a statement from Charles E. Reed, chief quartermaster of the Paulding, that although submarines have been cleaving the seas for many years, few sailors know anything about them.

Quartermaster Reed, a veteran of 12 years in the regular navy and coast guard services, was on the Paulding's bridge when the collision came off Provincetown.

His story was the third eye-witness telling at the naval board inquiry, and he corroborated Lieut.-Commander John S. Baylis, skipper of the Paulding, and Ensign G. M. Phannemiller, deck officer, as to the close proximity of the S4 when she emerged from the sea.

LIGHTSHIP OFF STATION.

Quartermaster Reed was being quizzed by Judge Advocate Bratton as to his ability in that rating when he surprised the court by informing it of ten years' service in the regular navy, for three of which he was chief quartermaster.

Although the inquiry session had been under way less than half an hour, a recess was immediately called by the inquiry board. Reed resumed the stand following the recess.

He testified he was on the starboard wing of the bridge when the submarine S4 suddenly poked up out of the sea off Wood End.

Reed had been using binoculars and trying to make out signals on the Nantucket Lightship, which was off its station.

"I heard an ejaculation and looked forward," he said. "I saw a periscope about three feet out of water and part of the antennae of a submarine, about 100 feet off our port bow.

"I didn't have time to take any impression, excepting that I realized the seriousness of the situation. With my experience on torpedo destroyers, I knew it would be impossible for the Paulding to answer her helm quickly enough.

"So I started back to telephone full steam astern, but found the captain had done so."

Quartermaster Reed said the shock of the collision almost knocked him from his feet.

"I got the impression that the submarine was moving across our bow," he said.

LITTLE KNOWN OF SUBS.

Q.—Did you know the Paulding was to change her course when she came abeam of the buoys off Wood End? A.—I surmised it. I had no instructions.

Q.—Then you were watching the buoys until you came abeam? A.—Yes, sir, and reported when we passed them.

Q.—Then it was your duty to keep a lookout for those buoys, and you were doing so? A.—Yes, sir.

Reed said his duties also included identification of ships and the following of ship movements. Asked if he had any knowledge of the operation of submarines, he replied:

"Not a great deal. I don't think anybody else does."

The quartermaster described his only sensation of the crash, as like going down on an elevator." This was when the destroyer slid of the submarine.

PICTURES COLLISION.

Using the models of the destroyer and the submarine, Reed placed the ships in positions relative to those at time of sighting, as he remembered them.

Then, while the judge-advocate counted off seconds, Reed moved the models to the point of crash and cried, "Now!" indicating the lapsed time between the sighting and the collision. Judge-Advocate Bratton was just about to drone "four" when Reed's signal came.

Reed said he did not see the submarine's propeller when the stern went under.

Q.—In your experience at sea and your knowledge of a wake, would you say there was any motion of water at the stern. A.—My glance was only momentary, so I could not see if there was any chop of the propeller.

THREE KILLED IN AIR CRASH

Benedict, Curtiss Field flier; Raymond Henries of Buffalo, the pilot, and Captain Edward M. Pauley, Albany aviator.

The fog was so thick throughout Sunday afternoon and all day yesterday that, although the aircraft crashed to earth within 100 yards of the farmhouse occupied by J. E. Bartlett, no one in the vicinity knew of the accident until Sheriff E. J. Sheehan of Montgomery County at the head of a party of searchers, located the bodies and the wreckage when the mists were dispelled this morning.

The bodies of two of the men were buried under the wreckage while that of the third occupant of the plane was found about forty feet away.

The farm on which the airplane crashed is about one mile west of Rural Grove, about eight miles from Fonda and seven miles from that village, on the south side of the Mohawk River. The region is sparsely settled.

Radio played a prominent part in the search for the missing aircraft, a Fairchild monoplane, which took off from Mineola for Buffalo on Sunday. Station WGY of Schenectady broadcast last night the news that the plane was missing. Shortly afterwards several listeners-in who live in the vicinity of Rural Grove reported having heard the drone of an airplane motor on Sunday afternoon, followed by a sound like a crash.

Acting upon this information, Sheriff Sheehan and a party of searchers spent the night exploring the woods and fields near Rural Grove, flickering lanterns providing their only illumination.

Henries and Lieutenant Benedict were aboard the plane when it left Mineola. Stopping at Albany, they took Captain Pauley aboard, and then headed their ship toward Buffalo. The plane was sighted over Schenectady and Fonda shortly afterwards, and then all trace of it was lost.

MOTORS TORN APART.

The plane, after first crashing, either bounded over or tore along the ground for a distance of about 100 yards. So great was the impact that the Wright Whirlwind Motors were torn apart. One cylinder was found 200 feet from the crumpled ball of canvas and metal that had once been an airplane, and another was found 150 feet away.

College Head Denies Honor System Is a Failure

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—George S. Davis, president of Hunter College, believes the honor system of examination at the school is successful, despite an article in the college publication by several students that "nine-tenths of the girls cheat."

Dr. Davis said he found the "strictures" all came from freshmen "who have not been trained in the methods of the honor system." He said he did not doubt the "strictures" as far as the observation of their authors went, but inquiry has convinced him this was not the situation in the upper classes.

MEXICANS AND MORROW OFF FOR HAVANA

Mexico City, Jan. 10 (I.N.S.).—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow left Mexico City today for Hanava to attend the Pan-American Congress as a member of the United States delegation.

Morrow, accompanied by Mrs. Morrow, their daughter Constance, and Allan Dawson, third secretary of the American embassy here, traveled to Vera Cruz by rail, aboard a special car placed at their disposal by Maliano Cabrera, acting director-general of Mexican National Railways.

They will sail from Vera Cruz direct to Havana tomorrow on the same ship on which the official Mexican delegates to the congress are traveling.

This delegation, the largest ever sent to any international conference by Mexico, is made up of Julio Garcia, counselor of the Mexican foreign office, chairman; Salvador Urbina, justice of the Mexican Supreme Court; Fernando Gonzales Roa, Mexican commissioner to the American-Mexican conference of 1923; Aquilos Elorduy, Mexican agent on the American-Mexican special claims commission, and twenty attaches.

EXILE TROTZKY TO SIBERIA

of the executive committee of the Communist party and the Third Internationale.

These men will suffer the same fate as the Nihilists and other revolutionaries before Russia went red. They will be sent into the vast wilderness of Siberia. According to the Moscow report, they will be scattered from Archangel throughout different parts of Siberia to Central Asia.

London, Jan. 10 (I.N.S.).—The once mighty Leon Trotzky, chief aid of Nicolai Lenine in the Red revolution in Russia, will be an exile within a week, said a report reaching here today from the Russian frontier.

It is understood Trotzky will be ordered to Ketrakhan, Turkestan, where he must remain under constant surveillance by Soviet police.

Six hundred members of the opposition party, who followed Trotzky in his attacks against the Stalin-Bukharin faction controlling the Moscow government, have been arrested and ordered into exile in Siberia, the report added.

"MICKEY THE WISE" IS INDICTED FOR MURDER

Michael Rocco of Roxbury, bearing the pseudonym of "Mickey the Wise Guy," was indicted by the Suffolk County Grand Jury on a charge of murder in the first degree in connection with the death by shooting of John J. Genovan. The latter was shot while in an automobile in South Boston on December 29. William F. O'Donnell of the West End, was indicted as an accessory both before and after the fact.

Maple Sap Up in Maine Thinks It Is Spring

Bangor, Me., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Sap is running in the Maine woods almost as freely as in March, according to reports received here from woods crews in the north part of the State.

Lumbering operations are being greatly hampered, and in some sections are almost at a standstill because of difficulty traveling on the tote roads which are covered with water in the low places.

Both the St. John and Aroostook Rivers are open, a condition that has prevailed but few times in January in the memory of residents.

North of Millinocket there is sleighing.

CANADIAN BORDER TRAFFIC INCREASES

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 10.—Automobile traffic over the international border between Vermont and Canada during the year which ended Dec. 31 was 38 per cent. greater than in 1926 it was shown by figures announced by Harry C. Whitehill, collector of customs for the second district.

A total of 815,370 motor cars crossed the Vermont border last year, carrying 2,474,669 passengers. The figures for 1926 were 589,661 automobiles and 1,939,622 passengers.

Cinderella and Her Husband Worried a Lot About Their DAUGHTER!

YOU may not have realized it, but after that slipper episode led the Prince into such a hasty marriage, he found that Cinderella was—well, let us be kind and say, "impulsive."

He wished Cinderella wouldn't call him Rex. She had an uncomfortable fondness for nicknames. He asked her to explain why she always addressed their daughter as Cereus. He knew it was a plant, of course, of the cactus family—not a flattering idea—but she laughed and said something about the flower, and when it bloomed. A brilliant woman, but difficult.

From the short story, "Cinderella's Daughter," in February Cosmopolitan

The daughter became a problem, or rather the central occasion for debate between them. She looked like Cinderella and acted like the Prince. So each thought she needed rescue and contended for possession of her soul.

Now who, we ask, would dare so whimsically to bring up to 1928 a fairy-tale we have reverenced for so long? Bernard Shaw? Perhaps. But he's too old to give it so 1928 a touch. Ah! John Erskine, of course—the man who dared to tell us the (as we say today) low-down on Helen, Galahad, and Adam and Eve.

Of course, he wouldn't dare do this, unless he were sure of his audience, and that—equally, of course—is why he does it in Cosmopolitan. Because he knows that in the readers of Cosmopolitan, he addresses an audience which can understand—the largest audience of intelligent readers in the world.

Are YOU Willing to LISTEN to the TRUTH?

DID YOU KNOW that General Pershing had to fight to have an American Army at all? That he had to fight to keep this army from being used as mere replacement troops and laborers in British, French, and Italian Divisions?

THAT THE BRITISH went behind Pershing's back direct to President Wilson and sought to have Pershing's power broken because he refused to accede to their wishes?

THAT CLEMENCEAU CABLED to Washington that Pershing could not get along with the French General Petain?

THAT IF IT HAD NOT BEEN for Pershing's courageous determination to have a real American Army the Allies might have lost the War?

For ten years America has been waiting for someone to tell the TRUTH of our part in the World War.

Cosmopolitan selected BRIG.-GEN. HENRY J. REILLY as the man best fitted to do this. Son of a regular army officer—the gallant Captain Reilly, killed at the gates of Peking during the great Boxer uprising—Reilly has been soldiering one way or another all his life. A year ago Cosmopolitan sent him abroad to get the basis for telling YOU the TRUTH. He begins it in February Cosmopolitan. [illegible] may not enjoy what he tells you, but you'll be in[illegible] believe us!

Who Can Tell a Story of Love and Daring as Can Our Own Rex Beach? We should answer without hesitation, "No one." And here we have in "Don Careless" a short novel complete—a treat for lovers of red-blooded fiction such as no other magazine could—or would—afford.

Emil Ludwig told the "Inside" About Napoleon, but that was Tame—compared to what this scintillating biographer tells about HIMSELF in his autobiography in February Cosmopolitan. A feature so unusual it could be addressed only to an audience as intelligent, as understanding as that of Cosmopolitan.

Irvin Cobb Wouldn't Want That Dempsey-Tunney Referee to Cook Eggs for Him "Because," he says, "I like mine soft-boiled." And that's only one of the wisely humorous—or humorously wise—comments he makes on the great national event, in "The Battle Hims of the Republic."

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
DAY IT HAPPENS
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN TUESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1928

TIGERS TO REPLACE CADETS

An Official Announcement of Game Expected Soon; Will Clash on November 24

By W. S. FARNSWORTH.

New York, Jan. 10.—Princeton will take the Army's place on the Navy [illegible] next Fall [illegible] on November 24. [illegible] was [illegible] the writer today from a [illegible] closely connected with Tigertown athletic affairs.

A meeting of the Princeton board of athletic control will be held [illegible] has sent out a [illegible] the meeting is to discuss [illegible] interest [illegible]

Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the Princeton board of athletic control, asked to affirm the report said today: "I refuse to affirm or deny the rumor that Princeton will play the Navy next Fall. However I am sure that before Saturday rolls around the game will be officially announced as a fixture."

The Navy and Princeton have [illegible] times on the gridiron [illegible] agreement [illegible] two years [illegible] both institutions that the [illegible] of the football [illegible]

Still Chance for Army-Navy Game

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 1[illegible].—Com[illegible] Director [illegible] says that no arrangement has been made with Princeton [illegible] to take the place of the Army game.

It is believed [illegible] that there is [illegible] game will be played [illegible] of the Secretary of War and the Navy.

Walker Silent on Dodgers' Deal

New York, Jan. 10 (I N S).—Mayor James J. Walker declined to comment today on reports that he and Paul Block, owner of the Newark International League Baseball Club, were negotiating for the [illegible] of the Brooklyn National League team.

Block, however, said [illegible] proposal had been [illegible] He said that he was "very much interested" but that nothing had been done about the matter.

Stephen McKeever, [illegible] owner of the Brooklyn [illegible] shares [illegible] The remaining [illegible] estate of Charles H. Ebbets, are known to be on the market. Mayor Walker [illegible] last year as [illegible] successor of Ban Johnson as president of the American League.

McGraw Signs Chinese Player

New York, Jan. 10 (I N S).—"Clever, these Chinese infielders," ruminated John J. McGraw, and forthwith proceeded to sign Buck Lai, semi-pro player, as a member of his New York Giants.

Lai, who is thirty-three, will report to the Giants at Augusta, Ga., in the Spring. After graduating from the University of Hawaii, he played with the Bridgeport, Ct., team in the Eastern League. Lai is the first Chinese player to enter the big league.

CHICAGO PAIR LEAD IN 6-DAY BIKE RACE

Chicago, Jan. 10 (I N S.)—Ernest Kockler, the Chicago milkman, who is paired with Eddie Merkner, also a Chicagoan, led the field of six-day bike racers at the Coliseum today. This pair jockeyed around the boards last night until they had collected six laps and the lead.

Kockler and Merkner, showing little concern for the higherups in this six-day racket, shook off the "Old Boss" McNamara, and his partner, Winter, who had kept well in front of the pack all night.

DANGEROUS OBSTACLE FOR SHARKEY

I'M COMING TO COP THE HEAVY TITLE

TOM'S REACH IS THE SAME AS SHARKEY'S

TOM HEENEY
NOW FOR AMERICA
PAULINO HAS A QUESTIONABLE DECISION OVER HEENEY

HE CLEANED UP EVERYTHING IN AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND

JACK SHARKEY SAYS HEENEY WILL STILL Be "down under" the referee as the latter counts 10 when they meet in the new Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night. Heeney, however, is one of the most dangerous men in the heavyweight division. He's not as clever as Sharkey but he depends upon his ruggedness and aggressiveness to carry on. This bout is of vital importance to both men.

BRUINS BATTLE FOR FIRST PLACE

By BILL GRIMES

As the New York Rangers and the Detroit Cougars are [illegible] the Bruins have an opportunity to jump into a tie for first place in the American Division of the N. H. L. by defeating the Chicago Blackhawks at the Arena tonight.

The Bruins are in third place but only one game behind Detroit, the present pacemaker. As the Boston outfit is scheduled to appear in the Gardens against the Rangers next Thursday night, a victory over Chicago would send them down to New York leading the division.

Although the Chicago Blackhawks have made the poorest showing of any team in the league this season they offer a style of hockey which is very popular with the fans. The Chicago team plays an open game which furnishes more thrills than a half dozen games such as resorted to by Ottawa.

The Bruins are all in fine condition after the hard game with the Maroons. Eddie Shore is wearing another decoration [illegible] caused by a stick crack from Babe Siebert but otherwise [illegible] is perfect. Shore has been playing sensational hockey this season and is one of the greatest individual attractions in the game.

Our old friend Duke Keats will be [illegible] for the Blackhawks. Duke was recently sold to Chicago by Detroit and [illegible] swinging [illegible] in the [illegible] Detroit [illegible] Arbour [illegible] share of the goals scored by Chicago.

Paolino May Be Sent Home

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 10 (A P).—[illegible] United States [illegible] of Labor Day [illegible] approval [illegible] leave the country January 19.

PEORIA BOWLING TEAM CLAIMS NEW RECORD

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 10 (A P).—The Peoria Life Insurance Company today claimed a new bowling record for its five-man team by reason of a score of 3,3[illegible] pins made last night in competition in the Saratoga senior league.

The league is under the sanction of the American Bowling Congress.

Schaefer Leads

New York, Jan. 10 (I N S).—Jake Schaefer was leading Welker Cochran by a score of 600 to [illegible] as the second day of play began in the [illegible] point 18.1 balkline billiard match.

Bouts Last Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York—Harold Mays, Bayonne, N. J., defeated Matt Adelo, Philadelphia (10); Joey Kaufman, Brooklyn, won from Luis Vicentini, Chile (6); Rene De Vos, Belgium, knocked out Willie Walker, New York (6); Pete Sanstol, Norway, defeated Lew Goldberg, Brooklyn (6).

Philadelphia—Jake K[illegible], California, won on a foul from Wild Matthews, Baltimore (5).

Why Vertical Boys From Britain Get Horizontal

New York, Jan. 10 (A P).—British boxers are at a disadvantage when they come to the United States because of differences in ring regulations, according to Bernard Mortimer, known as the "Tex Rickard of England." Mortimer is here for the Tom Heeney-Jack Sharkey fight.

"It seems to me that too much holding is allowed here with punching with one hand in the clinch," the British promoter said. "Over where I come from, the fighter is permitted to punch on the break and as a result he maneuvers for the break."

Brandon Meets Lorenzo Tonight

New York, Jan. 10.—Harry Brandon of the 14th Infantry [illegible] national [illegible] championship against [illegible] of the [illegible] feature [illegible] the 22nd Regiment [illegible] tonight. A pair of eight [illegible] of sixes make up the balance of the card.

PASSING THE PUCK

By Bill Grimes

If Hago Harrington sits tight, his attitude may be the means of determining whether the attempt to send him from New Haven to Providence was a straight out and out sale between those clubs or whether he was sold to the Rhode Island Reds by the Bruins without the required formality of asking for waivers.

Manager Art Ross announced last week that all National Hockey League clubs had waived on Harrington, but, at least one club in that organization has never received notice from Pres. Frank Calder that the Bruins wanted waivers on the Melrose boy. Therefore, if Harrington was sold by the Bruins someone has violated a strict rule, in order to accomplish his purpose of selling Hago "down the river."

The Vets have received a larger number of entries for this show than any of their previous ones and confidently expect this one to be the finest they have ever promoted. While many boys have entered for the novice class, the four open classes will be as equally well populated with some of the finest boxers in this state.

Stribling Wins

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 10 (A.P.)—Young Stribling, Macon (Ga.) light heavyweight, won the decision over Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis, in ten rounds here tonight. Stribling led in every round. Stribling weighed 176¼ pounds, Wiggins 192¾.

St. Paul Wins

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 10 (A.P.)—St. Paul, taking advantage of two openings in the second period, scored enough goals for a 2-to-1 victory over the Winnipeg Maroons in an American Hockey Association contest tonight.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

It is a common thing to see golfers who are constantly making changes in their clubs. They file off the weight from the back of their woods.

THIS DOES NOT CHANGE THE CLUB - IT RUINS IT.

They make a sour shot with an iron, whereupon they dash into the pro shop and have the lie of the club changed. In these things they simply reveal a mental side of the game that is interfering with progress more than anything else. If they understood clubs and their making they would know that you cannot "work" on a golf club with a vise and a hammer. To do so doesn't change the club; it ruins it. It is difficult enough to make a club do its work without getting into a mental attitude of that sort toward the club. While it is true that many bad shots are really due to the clubs, not all of them are, and to understand just which shots, bad, are due to the club, and which ones are due to you, is progress in golf.

Farrell Has Earned Position as Coach of Olympic Track Team

By JOE CASHMAN

Eddie Farrell, Harvard's young and very successful track coach, may not be chosen as a member of the coaching staff of the American Olympic team that will journey to Amsterdam next June, but if he does not, it will be a tribute to his honesty and fearlessness rather than a reflection upon his ability.

EDDIE TELLS FEW TRUTHS

From [illegible] between [illegible] and competition to [illegible] keep all [illegible] physically and mentally fit [illegible] world's competition [illegible] two [illegible] previous to the Olympic games.

"[illegible] responsible for the quarters [illegible] athletes [illegible] the living quarters and environment [illegible] not be improved upon but the going to and from training grounds did irreparable damage to the athletes. The only reason the boys did so well can be assigned to the fact that they are Americans. The keynote of the whole Olympic team is that quarters must be good, must be close to the field of competition, otherwise it is like an army cut off from its supply base. Before closing contracts on housing, a representative coach should be consulted. Housing should be close to training grounds of all teams.

"The army and navy men who were in control of finances were a big disappointment. For my personal part, it cost me a good sum to make the trip, but when legitimate expenses were not allowed, something is wrong. It must be acknowledged that, outside of the athletes themselves the next important cog in the whole machine is the coaches.

"These coaches are men and their life work is most important of all the professions, the making of real, one hundred per cent men. Is there any other profession can compare with it? Due consideration should be given the coaches. They should not be treated as though they were parasites.

"If the athletes lose, criticism is cast at the coaches, not at the business representatives or the financial men or the army and navy men. Colonel Thompson, in his public speeches, said: 'It is not so much the winning or losing as that good will must prevail among the nations.' Very good, but yet I overheard Colonel Thompson bewail the fact that we lost the 100 metres and the marathon.

"In my opinion he was holding the coaches responsible. That is his right, but if such is correct then my contention is also right—that the coaches are the more important cog in the wheel.

"The Olympic athletes' main object in Europe was to give their best efforts to win the Olympics and the American public that subscribed to send them were interested only in the success of the team abroad.

"The money raised was for that purpose. The folks at home did not give a whit about the social or diplomatic successes of those persons with the team. If these persons are necessary, then they should not be allowed to interfere, nor should they have any connection with the various teams—they should attend to their own knitting. [illegible]

SHE ACCEPTS HIS PROPOSAL

HE TELLS HER OF HIS "FLINGS"

SHE FORGIVES AND MARRIES HIM

By Beatrice Fairfax

An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage

[illegible] possible to really love and [illegible] a man? Is there [illegible] [illegible] we expect to marry. I have known him nearly [illegible] years.

"He is of a splendid family. I have never seen him with a girl other than myself. He says I am the only one he ever loved or ever [illegible] loved. I was [illegible] His [illegible]

"[illegible] a year ago he went to a wild party [illegible] he [illegible] with one of the girls they picked up. A month later, he confessed this to me and said the reason he acted as he did was that he got drunk and asked me to forgive him, saying he would never do it again. I overlooked that affair, I [illegible] it on the [illegible]

[illegible] three months ago, the same thing happened again. He would not [illegible] near me. I wondered what was wrong [illegible] answer. He looked terrible [illegible] the shame of it.

[illegible] did come to see me I could tell from the way he acted that he was keeping something from me.

"He loves me, I know, and I love him. I told him not to worry any more—that we would forget it. Now he is happy—his old self again. I try to be the same when I am with him. But some nights when I am working, I find myself wondering about him. The perfect faith I had in him is gone. He doesn't know this. He thinks I still trust him.

"I do not want to break with him, yet I feel I could stand even that, better than the doubt I feel now. I know there can be no happiness for us without faith and trust. He is happy, for he thinks I have forgiven and trust him.

"ALICE."

You have known your fiance nearly ten years, Alice. Under the most trying circumstances, without your companionship for his leisure he has averaged 90 per cent, except for two wild, perhaps disgraceful, parties.

He loves you, and you love him. On the occasions when he did drink and misbehave, he was frank enough to tell you the truth and [illegible] to do better.

He needs your faith and trust, even as he needs your love. Rise above your foolish doubts and fears and give him whole-hearted affection. Unless you can and will do this you do not love him and will be wise in breaking the engagement.

Can you not find work that will leave your evenings free so that you and he can enjoy the companionship that means so much to both of you? Or [illegible] plan to marry as soon as you can and [illegible] would be free and happier by forming a real home.

Miss Mae [illegible] of Kansas [illegible] picked out [illegible] the [illegible] girl [illegible] dozen. You also will have to exercise each day in order to attain and retain perfection of body, including a lovely back.

Here is an exercise which will supple and limber and strengthen all the muscles of your spine if you practice it persistently. But, of course, like all exercises described in this column, it is intended only for a healthy woman.

Lie flat on your back on the floor. Now swing your legs over your head until they touch the floor back of you. If you cannot touch the floor do the best you can. Return to first position. Repeat the exercise five times or more.

Housework, especially sweeping, is good for the spine.

If you follow faithfully the suggestions I have made, I feel sure you will be rewarded by the enhanced straightness, strength and beauty of your back.

Child Make-Believes

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,

Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR child will naturally go through the period of "make-[illegible]" has not already done [illegible] All children do. It is a phase of [illegible]ectual development. It brings [illegible] alike to the child and to the parent. It is all right as a passing phase. But it is your duty as a parent to see that it is a passing phase and that it does not settle into a confirmed habit.

A very general childish make-believe, especially about the first three years of life, is that of the imaginary companion. You have all [illegible] who have a delightful somebody with whom they can play, somebody who acts as a foil to them, whom they can lead, and beside whom they are superior. This make-believe, or phantasy, like most others, is not confined to children.

Another kind is the changeling phantasy. It consists of the make-believe that our parents are not really our own parents at all, but that we are really the children of someone rather special. This kind of make-believe usually means that the parents are not the right sort. The worse they are the more intensive and persistent is the phantasy likely to be. It is merely a defence fantasy, a make-believe escape scheme.

Children in early adolescence go in for adventure phantasies. These reflect their desire to reach out after big things, and to be the hero of thrilling stories. This tendency is what makes the stories of Ballantyne and Henty so popular. Within reasonable limits it is a normal and helpful thing. It draws the children out into life, provided they do not follow up their phantasies, except as they translate them into the realities of life.

The whole idea of a book, especially a novel, is to appeal to our phantasy side. The really great books appeal to so many people [illegible] the great [illegible] One of the greatest and most universal of these is that of the person who might have been so wonderful if he or she had better fortune. We can easily imagine there are 240 varieties of the Cinderella story known to students of folklore, and perhaps 240,000,000 varieties of it which they do not know. For we are all more or less convinced that we could have done better with better luck. What an enormous percentage of the novels published are written to appeal to that side of us which says that some day something will turn up and we shall have a change of luck and live happily ever afterwards. This is all pernicious [illegible] dreaming.

The Love Story of Emily Day of Dedham, by a Noted Writer of Romance

CHAPTER 24

ONCE, before he left Dedham, Emily did see Kent.

She left the shop late one afternoon, tired and a little discouraged. Frances Halden had not been able, as yet, to satisfy herself on the scheme of decoration for the new commission, and her young assistant was commencing to suspect that even such fascinating things as colors may be turned into hard work.

She sauntered up toward East street, feeling keen delight in the [illegible] of green on every side. And it was as she waited, curiously [illegible], under a spreading elm—at a motor load of gay young folks, [illegible] and laughing, [illegible] by Maurice Gr[illegible] and another gir[illegible]. Emily didn't know who in the back seat. He sat between them—the Kent of her recollection, the boy of a thousand and one dreams.

Exactly as she remembered him, he was; eyes so very blue, full-cut, merry lips with lines at the sides, cleft to the center of the proud chin.

Yet thinking it over afterward she decided he seemed not quite so carefree as he had been in the old days. There was about him a hint of sternness. He appeared more than six years older.

[illegible] beyond their eyes [illegible] and she held her breath. Almost she thought him about to speak. But they swept on and he had not seen her.

She stood there rapt with excitement, a [illegible]. Then [illegible] down the street and a [illegible]ness possessed [illegible]. She went on home feeling that her [illegible] in a great [illegible] strain of half-remembered [illegible].

The next day the society column reported that Kent had gone and a little torment [illegible] at her [illegible]. She might never see him [illegible] of Kent at home, perhaps [illegible] in the [illegible] far be[illegible] lost in the [illegible] world was quite another and one that shook [illegible].

Life went suddenly stale and colorless; in a driving panic she turned to Kingdon Coles.

He had invited her into the city to dine some evening and attend the theatre.

"Not very interesting now," he said. "Shows all closing for the summer. Still one house is trying out a new piece. You might think it amusing."

"Anything would interest me, King. You wouldn't [illegible] that I've never been to [illegible] excepting [illegible]? [illegible] in Boston [illegible]. S[illegible] you won't believe that."

Frances Had Never Hinted She Sailed Under False Colors

"Yes," he said. "Why not? Frances told me a little."

That puzzled her, rather. She didn't know, of course, about the tra[illegible] of wealth and old-fashioned [illegible] now accepted as fact by Coles [illegible] the others. [illegible] never had [illegible] to Emily that she was sailing [illegible] false colors through no fault [illegible]. And [illegible] to wonder why he failed to [illegible] to the home of the girl the [illegible] answer [illegible] all questions.

He saw her at their friend's house because her family would hold to [illegible] p and marriage. A suitor first [illegible] present himself to her parents after satisfying them would be [illegible] to call upon her occasion[illegible] sedately and, of course, under [illegible] chaperonage.

[illegible] enough for this. No matter how much in love a man might be [illegible] was no need of rushing things. [illegible] didn't blame her for wanting to [illegible] out of such an atmosphere.

Once or twice he had seen the gray eyes light and the sweet face flush suddenly; he had felt a lilt—a singing rhythm—about her. And he suspected that he hadn't touched even the surface of her real feeling. Depths there and heights—vital, exultant heights. But that would come.

Kingdon Coles never underestimated himself.

He waited for her at a Back Bay hotel one evening and took her to dinner.

Lights all shaded and a [illegible] the gleam of silver, the hard white shine of napery [illegible] so very bored [illegible] and [illegible] some, suddenly became a Viking.

Color—color—oh, everywhere. In rich gowns of women, flame and vivid blue running along white shoulders; floating in fairy streamers of chiffon and tulle.

Color in the music; the orchestra played simple things that night, songs Emily could understand. The lullaby from "Jocelyn," the Kashmiri song.

Color out in the street where a million jewels seemed to blaze; color in the very roar of traffic.

"I didn't know anything could be so wonderful, King. It makes you feel all sparkle some way."

"And you make me feel so, Emily. Does that please you? That I care so much?"

He Decided to Wait Before Making Love to Her

"Why, of course, King. Oh, look—the woman in ermine—exquisite—"

He gave it up. She was like a child with a new toy; he could wait to make love to her.

Everyone at the theatre seemed to know him. The man behind the window called him "Old King Cole," peering at her over his shoulder, and offered him a box, which he declined with a fine air of hauteur. It impressed Emily greatly.

Their seats were down in front and for the first few minutes he kept bowing right and left, sometimes smiling in a weary way.

"So popular," she thought. "Why they all seem to feel honored when he notices them. How important he must be—a power here—"

And the glamor of the evening settled upon him in her mind; all the color, the music, the lights became a part of him and dazzled her. For the first time since she had known Kent Rossiter his image grew dim.

The play perplexed Emily. Like the book by George Bernard Shaw she had tried to read, it seemed to be full of things she couldn't understand. Still, everyone else seemed amused—everyone but King, who kept muttering, "Stale—oh, rotten."

And when he asked her, about the middle of the last act, if she'd had enough, she was quite ready to leave.

Still she felt a twinge of pity for a young fellow who stepped up in the lobby and said, anxiously, "Hope you liked it, Coles?"

King shrugged dramatically, put out his hands, and the young fellow kept step with them to the door arguing in a tense, excited voice.

"It's a great idea, Coles. Rough in spots, maybe, but we'll take care of that. Have a heart, will you? All we want is half a chance—"

"You'll get all that's coming and you know it."

"But Coles—"

"Good night."

Tomorrow—Emily spends a day with Coles.

When the Clouds Roll By the season's styles will have changed but in the meantime "cloudy" tones of the yellowish gray order are all the rage. Many French dresses, for afternoon and evening wear, are emphasizing these shades.

The Invincibles—Winter and a Warm Heart -:- Drawn by Dorothy Flack

THE Invincibles meaning those who can neither be conquered nor subdued! Even Winter's icy breath cannot daunt them in their relentless pursuit of the Happiness for which they are restlessly seeking. And from the glow in their cheeks and the sparkling radiance of their eyes, one knows that they are on the way to finding their Ultimate Goal.

For Winter winds make the heart beat faster and give a warmer glow to the loveliness of Love's subjects. What matter if they haven't found the true Love for which they are seeking? They know they will find Love, for how can they help it, with Dan Cupid leading them on?

On they go, the Invincibles, undaunted, unafraid and unconquerable! For when one seeks Love, no obstacle is too great, no weather too severe, no sacrifice too great, but that each and every one is met and conquered, cheerfully and happily. For in this way and this way alone can one find Love.

So follow Dan through the Winter snows and winds and know that even though the winds be chill, the heart will be ever warm and happy and glowing with the thought of the Love that is waiting. And then—no season will ever be able to quench the [illegible] that has searched and found and will ever hold the Love that brings happiness and peace and joy forever.

stunts over the fair grounds to get everyone's attention, then Lynch turned the plane so that no one could see me on the wing and we threw out the dummy. It fell waving its arms and legs around wildly and landed near the Yellowstone River.

We returned to our field and waited expectantly for the curious ones to come rushing out for information, but two hours later, when a few Montanans did arrive, they told us about one of the other attractions—a fellow who dived from an airplane into the Yellowstone River, which was about three feet deep at that point. That was the last time we attempted to thrill a Montana crowd.

The barnstorming season in Montana was about over in October and soon after returning from Lewistown I purchased a small boat for $2. After patching it up a bit and stopping the larger leaks, I started alone down the Yellowstone River on the way to Lincoln.

The river was not deep and ran over numerous rapids which were so shallow that even the flat bottom of my small boat would bump over the rocks from time to time. I had been unable to purchase a thoroughly seagoing vessel for $2, and very little rough going was required to knock out the resin from the cracks and open the old leaks again.

I had my camping equipment lashed on top of one of the seats to keep it dry, and as I progressed down stream through the ever present rapids, more and more [illegible] time was required [illegible] boat with an old tin can, until at the end of [illegible], when I had traveled about twenty miles, I was spending fully half of my time bailing out water.

I made camp that night in a small clearing beside the river. There had been numerous showers during the day, which thoroughly soaked the ground, and towards evening a [illegible].

I pitched my army pup tent on the driest ground I could find and, after a cold supper, crawled in between the three blankets which I had sewn together to form a bag.

The next morning the sky was still overcast, but the rain had stopped, and after a quick breakfast I packed my equipment and again started down the river.

The rain set in anew, and this together with the water from the ever-increasing leaks in the sides and bottom of the boat required such constant bailing that I found little use for the oars that day. By evening the rocks had taken so much effect that the boat was practically beyond repair.

After a careful inspection, which ended in the conclusion that further progress was not feasible, I traded what was left of the boat to the son of a nearby rancher in return for a wagon ride to the nearest town [illegible]. [illegible] I expressed my equipment and bought a railroad ticket to Lincoln, where I had left my motorcycle.

A short time before I had left Lincoln, while I was racing with a car along one of the Nebraska roads, a piston had jammed and I had not found time to replace it. Accordingly, I spent several days overhauling the machine before proceeding on to Detroit, where I was to [illegible] mother.

I made the trip to [illegible] three days [illegible] two [illegible] Little Falls to [illegible] up [illegible] in connection with [illegible].

[illegible]

In March [illegible] I left Minnesota and after a short [illegible] started on a trip [illegible] Florida. My next [illegible] spent in Miami, and the [illegible].

"Sally's Shoulders"; She Tries to Forget All About John Nye

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XLVII

Sally swung away from Ted, and stood alone in the centre of the room, her breast falling and rising excitedly, her lips parted, and her feet and shoulders keeping time to the swift, wild music.

And then she began to do the "Shimmy Black Bottom" dance that she had shown Ted Sloan on this very floor not so long ago.

She combined those two famous dances, that can be so suggestive if done badly, and made of them a thing of beauty. She danced around the floor, the tiny bells tinkling as she moved. She danced as if she loved to dance—as if it were the beginning and the end of being alive. As if there were nothing else worth while in the world. She put her heart and soul, as well as her body, into that dance.

And when she had finished the 18 people in the room clapped their hands so long and so loudly that you would have sworn there were 50 of them instead of less than 20, if you had heard them.

But Sally wouldn't dance again. She waved and tossed them a smile from off her scarlet lips, and vanished into Aunt Em's kitchen—breathless and flushing almost as scarlet as her earrings.

"No, I won't dance any more tonight!" she declared to Ted. "Let them come back again if they want to see me shimmy again! That's good business! See?"

He did see. And he chuckled over the notion of Sally's becoming a business woman, with all the tricks of the trade, over night!

"You were a very good partner, Ted!" Sally said to him with enthusiasm, "and thanks for helping me but I love you for it!"

The next second she knew she shouldn't have said that, for his mouth straightened and his gray eyes darkened. "Do you mean that?" he asked her quickly, and very quietly, and she shook her head.

"Come out to the car with me," he said when he was going. But she shook her head and smiled up into his face.

"Not tonight," she answered.

She was slowly putting John Nye out of her brain and heart, she told herself. But the thought of him was still too strong to make way for any other man's image there—for Ted Sloan's image. She liked him—but not well enough to follow him out into the springtime darkness to give him the kisses that she knew he meant to have, if he could take them.

"See you tomorrow night," she said, and just barely touched his hand as he passed her.

And then our Masked Dancer went upstairs, changed her clothes, and came downstairs to help Aunt Em wash dishes until midnight.

For the next week or so there was no increase in the business.

Then, gradually, people began to hear about the Masked Dancer at the inn.

Beau, who was still working at the bank, told some of his "buddies" there about her, and they came. Mabel did a bit of advertising among the girls at Bursall's.

One night some people dropped in on their way back to town from The Lark, and the next night they came again.

Slowly, but surely, things began to get better. The dining room was not crowded every night, by any means, but it was often comfortably full. Aunt Em hired a dish washer and a piano player for the band.

Sally bought herself a new costume—a cunning affair of steel blue satin covered with tiny blue-and-silver bells. It cost her a hundred dollars exactly.

Mrs. Jerome was with her the day she brought it home from town in Aunt Em's little car.

"Perfect nonsense to pay out that much money for a dress like that!" she declared sourly, "especially when we all need new Summer hats, and I ought to have an air cushion for my chair. I just wish you had to sit all day the way I do—and I bet YOU'D have an air cushion—"

"But Mother we're spending my $30 a week, and Beau and Mabel and Millie are spending theirs—and they make more than that, every one of them!" broke in Sally, taking a corner beautifully. She was just learning to drive the car, and still kept her eye on the road. "We ought to get along on that, surely."

And then Mrs. Jerome threw her bomb. "I'm tired of living with your Aunt Em," she said sulkily. "I want a home of my own again—and if you care a snap of your fingers about my happiness you'll see that we all get into one again."

It always made Sally utterly miserable to know that her mother was unhappy about anything.

"I thought you liked being here with Aunt Em, dear," she said, remembering how determined her mother had been about coming there.

Mrs. Jerome sighed and shook her head.

"I don't," she answered. "Your Aunt makes me get up so early in the morning, and yesterday when she asked me to shell two bushels of green peas I just didn't know how I was going to do it—the smell of peas has always made me terribly sick to my stomach. I want terribly sick to my stomach. I want"

Sally's face, as she stopped the car and began to unload it, was very sober. "Well, Momsie," she said slowly and quietly. "I'll take another flat somewhere just as soon as I can. But I can't afford it right now."

"Of course you can afford it! The way you and your aunt are making money now!" she snapped, heavily lowering her great body from the car. "Millie said this morning that you must be making a small fortune."

"We aren't." Sally was telling the truth. They were making more money than they had, but their expenses were heavier, too.

"Then how could you afford that costume you've got there?" her mother wanted to know, her doubting eyes on the brown paper bundle that was Sally's new dancing dress.

"Well I couldn't, as I told you," Sally said bluntly. "But I had to have it. . . . That dance seems to help our business, somehow or other, and the old costume was so shabby."

"I don't believe anybody wants to see you dance," Mrs. Jerome cut in. "I think the business is picking up because it's Summer time—and that's why you have more people out here."

It began to dawn upon Sally that not only Mrs. Jerome, but the whole family thought that she and Aunt Emily were making a great deal of money.

Beau and Mabel began to talk about trading in their shaky little flame-colored roadster for a new car. "Sally can lend us some money and we can pay her back so much a week," Beau remarked easily one Sunday morning when they were all having breakfast together on the back porch.

Sally stared at him wide-eyed with astonishment. "Lend you the money for a car!" she cried. "Ye gods, Beau, I'm still paying for that new blue costume of mine. I can't lend you any money."

Mabel giggled sharply. "People always get tight when they start making money!" she said. "The only generous people in the world are the people who can't afford to be generous."

Sally flushed. "I hope I won't be tight and stingy when I do start making money, Mabsy," she replied evenly. "But I'm not making any just now. Please believe me. Thirty dollars a week isn't a fortune, you know."

Millie seemed to make the same mistake.

She took to bringing Davy Davidson home with her two or three nights a week, and serving him with one of the $1.50 chicken dinners as nonchalantly as if it had been a hamburger sandwich.

To be Continued Tomorrow.

How Hurry Wastes Your Life

By LUCY LOWELL

IN New York there are a thousand busy corners where traffic rolls all day long and nearly all night in a furious stream and where people gather every minute of every hour in twitching, seething knots, awaiting a chance to scurry [illegible].

I watched from a high window one such corner said to be the [illegible] in the world. Watched motors pouring endlessly, the hurrying crowd.

Always hurrying. Rushing to get to some place with all possible expedition so they then may rush on to some other place. Impatient, sometimes frantic, senselessly driven.

The great American failing—hurry. No rest of body, no [illegible] of mind. Thought superficial because so hastily snatched. Hurry, hurry—grab a little of this, a morsel of that—never stop to savor the taste of life.

They will tell you they must do this, make haste to get things [illegible]. Swoop upon achievement lest it run too far ahead.

I thought of the poem, "Waiting," by John Burroughs:

"Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind nor tide nor sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! My own shall come to me.
"I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face."

That's it—what belongs to you cannot escape you. And not all your insensate rushing, your raving against time or delay can bring it one step nearer, shorten by one instant the time that must pass before you hold it in your hands.

But those things can hurt you; they can strike the smile from your lips, the song from your heart.

Read the last exquisite stanza of "Waiting":

The stars come nightly to the sky,
The tidal wave unto the sea,
Nor time nor space, nor deep nor high,
Can keep my own away from me."

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I [illegible]. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. LAWRENCE WEAVER, [illegible] Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

MEDBURY SAYS -:- -:- BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

WHILE there are millions of bold people in this country, we also have plenty of timid ones. Some men are so bashful that they stutter when they talk to a scarecrow.

ONE guy wouldn't even swear without going to a notary public.

HE wears smoked glasses when he reads the Police Gazette.

HE took out a marriage license so he could kiss his girl.

HE always carries a lantern when they sit in the dark.

HE likes to see what he's doing.

HE doesn't know anything about love. He thinks you get mistletoe from a chiropodist.

HE'S scared to death to walk at night. He always sends his shadow home in a taxicab.

HE has no ability for sheiking. He couldn't lure a girl out of a burning building.

HE'S the kind of a fellow who'd sow his wild oats with a needle.

HE'S so innocent he isn't even effeminate.

THE wildest thing he ever did was to pose for a yeast advertisement.

HE doesn't know anything about manly sports. He thought you shot craps with a revolver.

HE can't help being dizzy. When he was six months old, the nurse dropped him on a merry-go-round.

OSCULATION breeds disease, so he does all his kissing at the board of health.

INNOCENCE is nothing to be ashamed of. Anybody has a perfect right to be dumb, but a lot of people are abusing the privilege.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips in 1875.

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1927, King Features Synd., Inc.

HALF the women in the world are frankly hoping, looking and longing for a grande passion, and the other half are cockily pretending that such things no longer exist, and saying "I don't care!"

Emotions, according to the sophisticates, went out of fashion with petticoats and pink teas. Yet every woman knows that to die without ever having known the divine spark of real love, is never to have LIVED.

Suppressing your emotions may be smart; but it is merely suppressing the life-force within you.

Nothing worth while has ever been accomplished in this world, that was not born of a sublime and all-absorbing emotion. Lindbergh's love for his airplane, Edison's love for his laboratory, Jane Addams' love for humanity are all grande passions!

Until you have felt something sublime—a sublime enthusiasm, a sublime unselfishness, a sublime love—you will never write a line, paint a picture, sing a note or produce a thought or a thing that will live.

Big things are not done in this world with the head and the hands alone. It is out of the white hot flame of the heart that great books and deeds and statues and poems and enterprises are born.

To scatter your emotions around on a lot of little cheap loves and cheap amusements, in the mad search for a synthetic thrill, is to cheat yourself out of the real thing!

It is turning the Divine Fire into a lot of little fireworks that will soon fizzle out and leave you bankrupt and burnt out.

Those who get the most out of this life, are those who live passionately, intensively—and above all, EMOTIONALLY!

Those who have never felt some sort of grande passion—a grande passion for work, for beauty, for music or poetry, for success or for a human being—are already dead from the neck up.

Your emotions are your birthright and your most valuable possession. Don't let a cynical world laugh you out of them.

They are the source of all genius, all success and all inspiration. They are the only real "KICK" you will get out of this life!

RELIEF FROM ITCHING PILES is so quick when PAZO OINTMENT is applied, it will surprise you. Druggists are keenly interested in the remedy and are recommending it to their customers. Ask your Druggist about PAZO OINTMENT. In tubes with pile pipe, 75c; or in tin box, 60c.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HORSE SIT UP, CHASE BALL, AND CARRY PACKAGES TO AND FROM POSTOFFICE

Mr. Frisby's daily lectures on "The Health of Your Horse" are attracting thousands. You owe it to your horse not to miss a single one of Yogi Frisby's messages.

By MISTER FRISBY
Congressman-at-Large

Washington—Today I opened my Question Box in the depot and found it contained no questions from the public.

This delighted me, for it proves that there is no question in the public mind as to the practicability of my plan to help the farmer.

All I ask now is that everybody buy a horse without delay, and turn his auto back to the finance company.

I will repeat my fundamental contention—more horses will eat more hay and grain, thus creating a stable market for farm crops.

Now, as to the care and feeding of your horse—

First, determine is your horse broke?

If so, walk—don't run—to the nearest Farm Loan Bank, ask politely, but firmly, for a loan.

Then see whether there are any flies on your horse.

If so, swat the fly. If the horse appears annoyed when you swat the fly, explain to the horse what you are trying to do. Convince him that you are swatting him for his own good.

Of course, personally, I think a vacuum cleaner is the thing to use for removing flies from horses—but that is another story.

Tomorrow—how to determine the color of your horse's eyes.

MOTHER!

Cross, Feverish Child Needs this Harmless Laxative

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oft-times all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

HALF-BILLION BOSTON BANK IS NEAR

By FRANK H. MELOON.
Financial Editor.

Latest figures published by the First National Bank of Boston continue to show a steady growth. Deposits on Dec. 31, 1927, aggregated $360,000,000, an increase in one year of over $50,000,000. During the year resources advanced $66,000,000 to a total of $477,000,000. With the increase in capital and surplus to $50,000,000, on which stockholders will vote in February, it should not be long before New England can boast a half-billion dollar bank.

Almost as interesting as the deposit figure is the showing of the First National in the acceptance field. As has been pointed out, New England ranks second to New York as a bankers' acceptance market with a volume nearly four times as great as that of Chicago or San Francisco. Of the total amount of acceptances outstanding in New England, the First National is responsible for nearly one-third. Such a growth as this is a powerful proof of New England prosperity.

I am informed today of the appointment of T. E. Chilcott as advertising division manager of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. He has charge of advertising and sales promotion activities in New England territory.

T. E. CHILCOTT

Previous to Mr. Chilcotts connection with the Westinghouse Company he was associated with Boston newspapers and the Ruud Manufacturing Company. He is a New England man[illegible]s former home being in Bangor, Me. This position was formerly held by J. P. Hoag, who is now with the Standard Mailing Machines Company of Everett.

New England shoe men face the months of 1928 with confidence. National Shoe Retailers' Association is holding forth this week in Chicago. George B. Hendrick of North Abington is chairman of the special committee of arrangements, and his many friends tell me that alone was enough to insure the success of "New England Night" in the great and growing metropolis of the midwest.

A Boston writer refers to the long toll bridge near Hampton, N. H., the largest of its kind in the world, as the "relic of an old day." That depends upon what is meant by "old," as the bridge is of rather recent years, reminiscent of the heyday of the trolley lines in New England. I have not traveled over it this Winter, but previously this bridge has not been maintained as a toll bridge in the Winter, but only in Summer months.

* * *

More than two years ago it was pointed out in this column that most of the major highways of New England, notably through the White Mountains and veining the South Shore, had been constructed as toll roads and thus paid for and handed down to posterity. We expressed belief the toll bridge and the toll highway system would have to be revived, as, in view of years of extravagance and waste by towns, cities and States, the new burden could be met in no way other

* * *

Later toll bridges were built in Florida (with Boston capital) in New York, New Jersey, Washington, Pennsylvania, Georgia and elsewhere. Now 1929 is expected to see the completion of the first recent toll bridge in New England linking Bristol and Portsmouth, Rhode Island.

* * *

A news wire says the project for construction of a nation-wide chain of long distance motor express highways has been put forward by Union Highways Association of America. Idea is to have Congress assist in financing, with actual cost of the huge undertaking eventually met by toll collections. Leaders behind the movement are Lester P. Barton of Detroit, Wendell W. Chase of New York city, vice-president of New York Automobile Club, and Ernest P. Goodrich of New York city, consulting engineer on traffic of the regional plan of New York and its environs. Cost of New York to New Haven link alone, it is estimated, would be about $39,000,000. That of other links would be correspondingly large, making whole program run into the billions.

State Street Notes

NASH Motors pays extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to regular quarterly of $1. Earned $8.30 a share in year ended Nov 30 against $8.50 in previous year.

STEVENS Manufacturing, cotton specialty mill, of Fall River, in reopening, put into effect a 10 per cent. wage reduction. This is first cut in Fall River in years.

RUSH for naturalization papers started at New Bedford on announcement of Firestone and Goodyear tire-fabric plants that they would employ only American citizens. It is understood Fisk plant will insist its alien employes become naturalized.

REED & Barton Corporation of Taunton and Dominick &aff, Inc., controlling McChesney Co., of Newark, N. J., all manufacturers of sterling silverware, have merged.

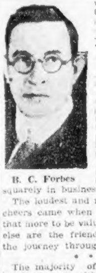
HEREAFTER member banks of Federal Reserve System in New York City will be required to report twice a week on their reserve position instead of once a week as heretofore.

What Do You Cheer Most? Schwab Offers a Pointer

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—What appeals most to business men?

It was intensely interesting to watch the reactions of the hundreds who attended a testimonial luncheon tendered Charles M. Schwab in New York the other day.



B. C. Forbes

The biggest cheers were aroused, not by [illegible] concerning ringing declarations of patriotism, not by any declamations of the importance of making a fortune, not by preachments concerning the necessity of dealing fairly and squarely in business.

The loudest and most enthusiastic cheers came when Schwab declared that more to be valued than anything else are the friends one makes in the journey through life.

The majority of those at the luncheon were either middle-age or elderly. There were very few young men, and hardly any, I should say, who have not climbed at least two or three rungs up the business ladder. Had the audience consisted mainly of young men, Schwab's emphasizing of the pricelessness of friends would have elicited distinctly less cheering.

The tragedy is that, after leaving school or college, most men enter the battle of life without realizing the worth-whileness of maintaining and cultivating friends. Often the pace is extremely strenuous. Often precious little time is found for anything but wrestling with each day's problems and planning how to overcome them.

* * *

In the twenty or twenty-five years between school or college days and the winning of a more or less responsible position in the world of affairs, the making of friends too often is either totally neglected or treated as a matter of the most secondary importance.

After that, what happens?

* * *

By the time men have fought their way toward the top and are ready to turn their thoughts to getting something out of life besides material possessions, they discover that they have permitted their garden of friends to become overgrown by weeds.

They are shocked to find that they have completely lost the old, intimate touch with almost every one of their schoolmates, and that, on reflection, most of the acquaintances of more recent years are merely acquaintances and not really deep-rooted friends.

I rather think it was because a great many of those who listened to Schwab's pronouncements about the value of friendships now sense that they have wholly or partly neglected to win friends and prove friends, that his philosophy appealed so strongly to them.

* * *

Happily, all men do not have such said experiences. Take Schwab. He declared—truthfully—that the best friends he had in the world had been made during his half-century's business life.

Why?

Because Charlie Schwab all the way long has radiated friendliness, and, in turn, has attracted it. Certainly, he has encountered about as many disappointments and trying experiences as any big man in America. For ten years he never opened the door of his New York mansion, so completely tied up was he in the problem of raising Bethlehem Steel from a small, dilapidated, bankrupt concern to a gigantic, profitable enterprise.

But all this, as he remarked the other day, did not sour him on humanity. He kept on smiling while he was toiling. He had a cheery word and a warm grasp of the hand for everybody. He took time to tell a good story.

Doubtless there were among Schwab's hearers millionaires who had it brought home to them that their lives have not been genuinely successful, that they are entering the evening of life rich only in money and poor, indeed, in friends.

* * *

Is not the moral of it all simply this? We should not allow ourselves, no matter how busy we are, no matter how numerous and perplexing our difficulties, to become callous toward others, to become utterly bereft to sentiment, to become coldly mercenary and self-centred, but should, for our own sakes—to say nothing of the sake of others—so live and act day by day as to win friends and prove ourselves true-blue friends.

COMPARISON of PER CAPITA SAVINGS DEPOSITS
IN THE UNITED STATES FOR 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927

American Bankers Association chart shows Massachusetts retaining its leadership in per capita savings deposits. The "graph" also demonstrates clearly the preponderance of the New England States in the fair field of thrift.

live, but what you do while you are living counts. A centenarian is not of great importance unless it can be shown that the last forty years have been something better than mere existence. Giant turtles on the Galapagos islands live almost a thousand years, but that does nobody any good.

Goethe wrote the second part of Faust when past seventy, Michelangelo painted magnificently after eighty, and Titian at ninety, when the plague killed him. Edison, past eighty, does fine work and inspires youth. Theirs is the old age worth while.

Lyman J. Barber of Los Angeles, kidnaped by Mexicans in Guerrero last month, returns from captivity with an exciting narrative. The Mexican bandit-kidnapers didn't get their $10,000 ransom and decided to kill Mr. Barber last Sunday morning. On the preceding night, according to his story, Mr. Barber having secreted an iron rod and a broken bottle, killed four of his captors and escaped, tired, but safe.

Those that call the story improbable must remember that extraordinary things are done in desperation. Long ago a New England woman, captured by Indians and carried through the forest for several days, escaped after murdering half a dozen of them, in their sleep, with one of their own tomahawks. Every blow was so deadly that no warrior heard a sound.

Experts will show that the young kidnaper and murderer, Hickman, suffers from dementia praecox, the brand of insanity that freed the young Chicago murderers, Leopold and Loeb.

Fortunately, dementia praecox fails to work some times when cash is not abundant, and that is the case as regards Hickman.

If cold-blooded cruelty, careful planning and extreme cunning constitute dementia praecox, then that kind of insanity should be cured by life imprisonment. If Hickman is not convicted, any California conviction for murder hereafter will be a farce.

Mr. Sandino, who recently killed some of our marines, is said to have adopted for his patriotic little emblem, a seal labelled "Republic of Nicaragua," showing a Nicaragua patriot cutting off the head of an American marine.

From that dream Mr. Sandino will be awakened soon. There won't be any American seal showing an American marine cutting off Mr. Sandino's head, but there may be a practical demonstration along those lines

MADE BANDITS DRUNK; KILLED THEM; FLED

lected. The blackness of night enabled the engineer and his servant to elude other bandits in their mad dash for freedom.

WERE TO BE KILLED.

Barber's story of his escape follows:

"Saturday night my mozo (servant) Pedro, who was kidnaped with me from the Monte Carlo mines near Zacualpam December 15, heard our guards talking among themselves around the campfire in the mountains where we were held prisoners. He signalled me and we overheard them say that their officers had decided Pedro and I would both be killed Tuesday unless our ransom was paid before that time.

"Six thousand pesos had already been paid—1,000 at one time, and 5,000 at another—and another 15,000 ($7,500) was being demanded.

"When we heard this I told Pedro we would have to make a final desperate effort to escape as soon as possible. We were doomed to die anyhow, and it was better to die fighting if we had to. Pedro, always a faithful servant, agreed.

BANDITS SLEEP.

"I had a bottle of cognac which had been smuggled to me by couriers who, all during my imprisonment, went back and forth from the bandit camp to the mines to negotiate my release.

"I passed this bottle of cognac around among the four bandits or rebels who were guarding Pedro and me—others of our captors being some distance away wrapping themselves in blankets in preparation for sleep. We sat around the campfire, the guards continuing to drink cognac until finally all four were drunk. They completely passed out—they lay back on the ground and went to sleep.

"All this time I heard a horse walking about among the dry stalks of an old cornfield near the camp, which was upon a mountainside. Every step of the horse crushed the dry stalks, and they sounded to me like pistol shots. My idea was to get that horse as soon as we finished with the guards.

ESCAPE ON HORSE.

"About 11 o'clock I signaled to Pedro in question as to whether he was ready and he responded 'yes,' so we took the cognac bottle from which the guards had been drinking and some large stones and pounded their heads. We then rushed away into the cornfield. Both Pedro and I jumped upon the horse's bare back and urged him away as fast as possible.

"We were pursued by some of the band from the camp and some shots were fired at us, but we were not hit.

"The horse blundered and stumbled about in the darkness and we soon discovered that he was blind; but we rode him as fast as we could go, as long as possible. I do not know how long, but it was several hours. The horse then tumbled into a ravine and died. We were shaken up, but unhurt by that particular fall, although my eye was suffering from an injury received previously, when thrown from a horse while moving with the bandits from one camp to another.

HAZY ON LOCALITY.

"We reached an Indian village after daylight where we were treated kindly. We rested a little, asked directions, and started afoot again toward Cuernavaca. We reached there Sunday afternoon. I tried to telephone to Mexico City but failed. I then got an automobile and Pedro and I came on to Mexico City, arriving Sunday night."

All references to camp localities and number of rebels and bandits were omitted from the account transmitted to newspapermen, because the Mexican Government had requested Mr. and Mrs. Barber not to reveal such details.

As a matter of fact Barber was very vague himself as to localities. He only knows that after he was kidnaped he was shunted about from camp to camp in the mountains, and finally escaped from some place not far from where he was kidnaped.

DECLARE DRY LAW DRIVES FARMERS TO BANKRUPTCY

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 10 (A.P.)—North Dakota Republicans who favor modification of the Eighteenth Amendment met and effected an organization, adopptepd a platform and endorsed candidates for national and State offices. Closing of "hundreds of banks in North Dakota" and "the driving of thousands of farmers into bankruptcy, due to destruction of the farmers' market for barley, corn, rye, oats and hops" were attributed in one resolution to prohibition laws. The meeting advocated control of the liquor traffic by the government "for profit," and declared "against the saloon and in favor of temperance."

"A NIGHT in IRELAND"

FOR the 50 best letters received from Evening American readers stating why you prefer trading with the concerns whose advertisements appear in the "Who's Who" columns we will give a ticket to the

ARLINGTON THEATRE

Two of the winning letters will be published below each week and each of the 50 winners will be notified by mail. Letters should not exceed 100 words and should be addressed to the Classified Advertising Manager, Boston Evening American.

Dear Sir:—

After seeing Bob Berger's advertisement in the section of "Who's Who" in your paper I ate there after spending a tiresome day shopping.

How delightful everything tasted and how glad I was that "Bob" had an "ad" in your paper, otherwise I would not have known where it was.

Sincerely,
Yvonne Harrington,
11 Bellingham St., Chelsea.

Dear Sir:—

I have noticed "THE RECREATION" advertised regularly in "Who's Who" and I have also noticed the many testimonials regarding it. Thus influenced, I decided to go there, and give them a trial. I can honestly say that I have found immeasurable pleasure in that delightful place. It is certainly well named. The alleys are perfect, the employes are courteous, and the patrons are congenial. I now go there often, alone or with friends. I am always assured of a good time.

Sincerely yours,
T. Goulston,
118 Bellingham St., Chelsea.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

A Church Like an Organ

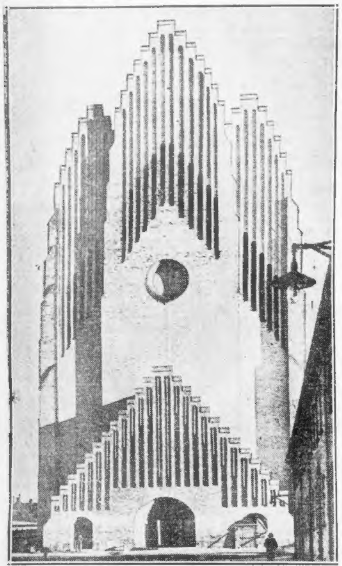
What OTHER Design Would You Suggest?



A NEW DANISH CHURCH OF STRANGE DESIGN

These are days of architectural novelties, cubistic art, towering skyscrapers, crouching bungalows, strange Einstein sculpture.

And this is one of the most striking architectural novelties, built in Copenhagen, Denmark.

It is a church made to resemble a great organ. The door is at the bottom of the organ, and the pipes form a sort of church spire.

Perhaps it will impress those that worship, making them feel that they have entered the very spirit and temple of sacred music.

It will certainly interest the children that see it, and those that like strange things.

If this fashion should spread, many interesting designs for church facades may be devised. What would be YOUR selection?

Would you suggest a church made in imitation of a huge angel with spreading wings, the entrance to the church being between the feet of the angel? Or perhaps a church to look like a pair of gates 200 feet high, symbolical of the gates of heaven?

Or would you prefer something more striking, a representation of Abraham's bosom, with Lazarus sitting there, very contented, and a suggestion that churchgoers might also make that trip. You might even have a church shaped like a Christmas tree. Many possibilities, once novelty takes.

However, the old-fashioned church, its steeple pointing to all parts of the sky, as the earth turns around, satisfies the majority.

Labor and Capital

And That 13-Month Year

Sir Josiah Stamp, head of the British London Midland Railway, says capital and organized labor should unite to revive British industries, coal, steel, railroads, etc.

If organized money and organized labor got together they could make any amount of money, without strikes or fights. Those between the top and bottom organizations could not avoid paying what might be demanded.

Nine hundred of 1,000 prominent American business men, questioned, approve the "13-month year"; so do many foreign nations.

Each month would have four weeks, every month would begin on a Sunday. Every week day would come on the same day of the month every year; an extra day would be left over each year, and two extra days in Leap year. This would simplify many things, but it would make the year 13 MONTHS.

That would offend superstition. Once, when the calendar was corrected, and a few days were nominally stricken out, there was violent protest because millions of fools believed their lives were made shorter.

Nations like England and the United States, not yet sufficiently intelligent to adopt the metric system in weights, measures and everything else, will not adopt the thirteen-month year.

EVILS IN SYSTEM OF GETTING BAIL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE has been a good deal of stir recently in several cities about the bail nuisance.

A man is arrested. It may be that he is not at all guilty of the alleged crime and to keep from going to jail he has to furnish bail.

There is a swarm of bail dealers in the proximity of most police stations who make a business of bailing the accused people out for a consideration. If the bail is set, for instance, at $1,000, they will furnish it, but they must get $100, or 10 per cent.

I have heard it said that if a man jumps his bail it makes no difference. The court authorities and the bail men seem to be in league and the bail is forfeited.

These bail furnishers seem to have an extraordinary standing with the court officials. These officials will take their word for anything and also accept their bond.

A friend of mine was arrested recently for carrying liquor. It was on Sunday morning. I went down to the jail to furnish him bail and took along a property owner, as I was informed that a man to sign the bond must be a property owner.

The clerk at the jail informed me that he could not accept a bond from a property owner, but he had to have cash. The banks were all closed on Sunday and neither of us happened to have the cash handy, so the clerk informed us we could go to one of these bond brokers and get the amount of bail for $1,000 by a payment of $100. We didn't do it. My friend, however did it himself and was bailed out on paying $100 to the broker.

Just why this clerk should refuse the bond of a property owner and why he was willing to accept the bond from a bail broker I cannot say.

The whole system is rotten.

An Australian in this country recently said they did things differently there. Cash bail is not acceptable. A man must be a property owner to furnish bail. In this way the bail broker is eliminated.

The bail broker is an evil institution, furnishing abundant opportunity for police graft and preying upon innocent people.

Boston DAY by DAY

HOW we moderns speed up things is shown by a recent occurrence in which Paul Hines secretary of the Boston Automobile Club figured. Hines received a request last Wednesday from the wife of a naval officer stationed here, for Washington license plates. He immediately wired the proper Washington official. That official put the plates in the air mail and in less than 24 hours after she had asked for them the woman was using the plates.

* * *

To get a pair of plates in Washington costs but $1, contrasted to the amount needed here. Yet Major Hines says on this particular occasion it cost $5 for the telegram and $4.60 postage.

* * *

When "Ken" Erskine was a student at Syracuse, his thoughts were far from the day he would be a hard working insurance man and living out on Common street, Watertown. Yet Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Erskine both turn back time to college days by attending every hockey game they possibly can. Erskine, a former baseball star, usually is madly cheering most nights at the hockey games.

* * *

Chester I. Campbell landed in New York on Friday to start a campaign for convincing the rest of the world that New England is the best place for touring. Campbell is sure we have the most attractive atmosphere, natural geography and historical background.

* * *

Thirty-five years ago, so older people tell us, there was much informal horse racing out along Beacon street between Governor square and the Cottage Farm Bridge. In those days that territory was distant from the more civilized portions of the city.

"All in the Same Boat"

New Bedford! New England!

Mr. William C. Hawes, speaking under the auspices of the Boosters Club of New Bedford, explains the latest slump in cotton textiles:

> "During the last six to eight weeks business slowed down and more or less looms stopped. This is not an unusual condition at this time of the year as buyers of goods are apt to defer their purchases until the last cotton report has been received. The buyers in a great many cases like to go into the New Year with low stocks on hand and a large bank balance in order that they can make a good showing at their banks."

All the New Bedford mills which have held the annual meeting, Mr. Hawes reminds the "leading city in the world in the manufacture of fine cotton goods," have shown a profit. None has registered a loss. The other corporations are to hold their meetings in February. He looks for "equally good showings" at that time.

New Bedford, this real booster is certain, is no longer a "cotton mill town," but a "city manufacturing the finest textile fabrics in the world."

And finally a paragraph or two which can be read and re-read with profit in shoe and textile towns alike:

> "We are too prone to accept false statements and ridiculous rumors as facts. Our trouble at the present time is mental, not actual. There is nothing wrong with New Bedford's leading industry and the quicker we come to that realization the better off we will be.
> "This fact should be borne in mind, that everybody in this community is in the same boat, whether it be the mill manager, the operative, merchant, banker, lawyer, doctor, or anybody in business in this locality. We should all boost and talk for our home city instead of knock. Only the fool rocks the boat. The pessimist has no place in the community."

ONE of New Bedford's advantages over other textile centres in New England is the absence of absentee ownership. The industries of the city at the gateway to Cape Cod, representing a capital investment of more than $175,000,000, are financed and operated by New Bedford folk. Under these circumstances it is possible for the people of the city to talk things over, the Boosters Club supplying the "town meeting." False statements and ridiculous rumors about the condition of industry in New Bedford cannot get far before a Booster scotches 'em.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE bought a little plaque of "The Annunciation" to hang on my office wall. It is only a small piece of colored porcelain, but, if you understand the story, it is a door opening into eternity.

There is Mary, the young Hebrew girl, soon to be a mother. A frail little figure, drooping under the glory that has come upon her, yet radiant with her pride. Before her kneels God's messenger, adoring. Behind, in the infinite blue, the Father's face appears, circled by cherubim.

A bit of porcelain you could almost hide in your hand, but it tells all of Love's deathless story, Love's beauty and Love's agony. As I look at it I think of what old Simeon said when Mary brought her baby to be blessed in the temple. Holding the child in his arms the old man cried aloud, and prophesied the glory and terror that would come because of him. Then suddenly his seeing eyes turned upon the wistful girl and, with a strange, pitying tenderness, he said—

"YEA, A SWORD SHALL PIERCE THROUGH THY SOUL ALSO."

A sword to pierce her soul—yet there is no record that she cried out or tried to evade that tragic doom. Always, I think, she carried herself with that air of staunch, patient pride. She paid her price so gallantly, that little mother of our Lord.

GOD MAY HAVE WROUGHT THE MIRACLE WITHIN THE CHRIST CHILD'S SOUL, BUT LITTLE HUMAN MARY PUT THE STEEL OF HER OWN SPIRIT IN HIS SPINE.

I wonder what would happen to the human race if every mother would take her motherhood like that. Not demanding that it should be comfortable or complacent but staking everything she has on Love.

If the first stirring of all human life could come like that Annunciation—the heavens opening in glory—the whirring of white wings about her soul—

The solemn consecration of a partnership with God—

The terrible and beautiful miracle of birth—

And the inevitable price to be paid—gallantly!

"A SWORD TO PIERCE THY SOUL!"

Always the sword ahead. Obscurity, monotony—while carefree women are being courted, flattered, having careers. Weariness, anxiety—while single girls laugh and play. Hair fading, figure slipping—while others exploit their beauty. Sleepless nights—drudging days. Loneliness. Dullness of mind and body. Sacrifice. Sacrifice, SACRIFICE! Heartbreak and agony. Perhaps, at the end only a terrible, spent vigil at a grave.

ELSIE ROBINSON
A SWORD SHALL PIERCE THY SOUL

Always the sword—always the price—

BUT, OH, HOW WELL WORTH THE PRICE, EVEN IF WE HOLD THEM FOR BUT A LITTLE WHILE BEFORE GOD TAKES THEM HOME AGAIN!

Mary knew it was worth the price. There is no record that she ever asked to be let off, ever whined or evaded or rebelled.

She saw it through.

Through to the cross!

IF WE WOULD PAY THE PRICE AS GALLANTLY AS MARY DID, PERHAPS THE WORLD TODAY WOULD SHINE WITH SONS OF GOD.
